WHEELER AIMS FIRE AT COURT PROGRAM

Leader of Democrats Fighting President's Proposal Starts Speech-Making.

WASHINGTON, July 9—Senate opponents of the administration [illegible] bill sent lanky Sen. Wheeler, [illegible] of Montana, to the firing [illegible] today to begin their attack.

The Montanan has been the gen[illegible] of the Democrats fight[illegible] the measure.

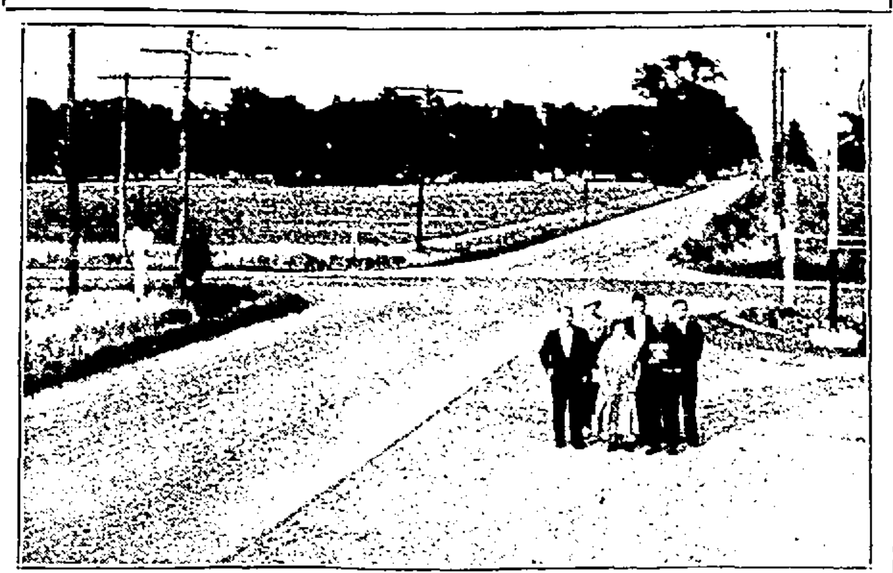
WAR ON DEATHS AT "SUICIDE CROSSING"



A camera view of "suicide crossing," taken when the Red Cross chapter opened its highway first aid station there a week ago, is shown above. The camera was facing eastward when the picture was taken. In the group, rear row, left to right are Miss Lillian Plack, Red Cross chapter secretary, Boyd Titsworth, first aid instructor, Thomas D. Bain, the chapter's highway first aid station chairman, and in the front row, left to right, are Darrel Vermillion and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Vermillion, operators of an automobile service station at the crossing and in charge of the first aid station.

Red Cross First Aid Station Is Latest Move To Reduce Traffic Toll at Intersection; Officials Discuss Reason for Numerous Fatal Accidents.

ANOTHER blow has just been struck in the battle to lift the grim hand of death from "suicide crossing" where four persons have been killed in a span of three years and where dozens of persons have been injured.

"Suicide crossing" is just an ordinary intersection of state routes 95 and 98 five miles east of Marion on the Mt. Gilead road. It doesn't look dangerous, and therein, authorities agree, lies one of its big dangers.

The newest development in the campaign to rid the crossing of its traffic hazard was the opening of a Red Cross first aid station at a filling station on the intersection last Friday. This not only makes trained practitioners of first aid available to help save lives of accident victims but also posted one more warning sign on each of the four approaches to the crossing.

Another recent endeavor to check accidents there was Sheriff Fred F. Miller's campaign against motorists who ignore stop signs. Equipped with a new type of citation for traffic law offenders, the sheriff and his deputies have summoned a number of drivers before courts and justices of the peace to explain their failure to obey stop signs on route 98.

Several Admit Neglect

"Several of them have been frank enough to say they saw the sign but didn't stop," Sheriff Miller said. "That probably is the case in a majority of the instances when automobiles go streaking through the crossing on route 95, some scarcely checking their speed. Those are the drivers we're after—the crossing won't be so dangerous if we can get rid of the type of motorists who might be called the intentional offenders. They see the sign but they keep on going. Each one is a potential murderer because his negligence may cause a death."

The sobriquet of "suicide crossing" fell upon the intersection several years ago because of the general opinion among authorities that the deliberate failure of motorists to heed the stop sign on route 95 and the slow sign on route 95 was responsible for the crossing's heavy toll.

The publicity and repeated warnings by authorities that followed four fatalities there within a three-year period apparently has somewhat checked the number of accidents, but has not reduced them to the satisfaction of Sheriff Miller and the highway patrol.

Route 95 is a short cut from Waldo to Bucyrus. Hundreds of persons living in Columbus and other cities south of here regularly use the route when headed for Lake Erie resorts. Route 95 connects LaRue and Fredericktown by way of Marion and Mt. Gilead. Ordinarily the flow of traffic on either road is not heavy—the absence of heavy traffic across the intersection is, in the opinion of Sheriff Miller, another factor that puts the motorist off his guard as he approaches it.

Warnings Dot Roads

The approaches to the intersection are dotted with signs calling attention to the hazard. On Route 95 there are now four separate signs to warn the motorists. One warns there is a stop sign ahead. Another lists the junction of the routes. Another is the Red Cross first aid station sign, which with its red cross on a white background has significance for all drivers. The fourth sign is a large octagonal "stop" sign at the intersection—one that can be seen from a distance. On route 95 there are three signs on each approach—the junction sign, Red Cross first aid sign and a large "slow" sign.

Sheriff Miller said he feels much of the danger at the intersection could be eliminated by erection of an electric traffic signal. "If any point in the county needs a signal, it's that crossing," he said, explaining that motorists generally are more inclined to obey a traffic signal than a stop or slow sign.

Highway patrolmen have joined with county authorities since the patrol was founded in an effort to make motorists obey highway stop signs. They contend that every stop sign marks a danger point, and that every motorist who fails to obey such a sign risks not only his life but that of others.

Among the fatal accidents at the crossing was one that caused the death of Jarvie Creager, 31, of Huntington, W. Va., on Sept. 30, 1931. In another, Clarence H. Kirby of Bucyrus was fatally hurt in September of 1934. Two men, William Emmett Mayle, 42, and Walter Ruffing, 26, of Norwalk were injured fatally on Oct. 7, 1933.

Among the serious non-fatal accidents at the intersection is one in which E. C. Brauning of east of Columbus suffered a fractured skull on Aug. 27, 1935. Mrs. Arthur C. Lockwood and her two sons of Marion were injured in the same crash.

STORM IMPEDES PLAYERS

Victory Laurels Held Up for While Pending Club Decision Regarding Round.

By The Associated Press

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 9—Tall Henry Cotton, famed British professional, won the British open golf championship today for the second time in three years, posting 290 for the 72-hole tournament after a heavy rainstorm threatened for a time to force replay of the final round.

Cotton, holder of the title in 1934 and acknowledged king of British shot-makers for several years, had the title in the bag for several hours before a ruling by the tournament committee of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews made it official.

After lengthy conference the officials decided that the fourth and final round would stand as played.

This decision gave Cotton, who scored a brilliant par 71 in his last round at the height of the storm, the championship by a margin of two strokes over Regiland Whitcombe, youngest of the three famed British golfing brothers.

Cotton, who was England's favorite from the start of the first qualifying round last Monday, lived up to that position this afternoon as, in the face of one of the worst downpours in tournament history, he sloshed through Carnoustie's half-submerged greens and over its bobby fairways.

That gave him a two-shot margin over English Reggie Whitcombe 55 and 54-hole leader, with Charley Lacey, burly pro from Great Neck, N. Y., leading the American contingent a stroke further back at 293.

Charles Whitcombe, Reginald's brother, was next with 294.

Whitcombe, out front yesterday with 142, and at 54 holes with 216, three in front of Cotton, skidded to a 76 on his last round for 292. Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., was the leading American at 296.

Nelson shot a 74 on his last round, while Ed Dudley, first round leader and American pacesetter for 36 holes, took 75 to finish at 297. He was followed, temporarily at least, by Alf Padgham last year's winner.

Denny Shute, rated the chief U. S. threat at the start of the day, blew himself to a closing 80 for 30[illegible].

Johnny Revolta, lantern-jawed American who won the U. S. pro title in 1935, scored a closing 76 for a 311 that put him far down in the final tabulation.

CRAWFORD CO. ROAD CREW GETS TRAILER

Country's Heat Wave Rolls Up 56 Death Toll

Mercury Soars in Area Across U. S.; Reaches 94 Here.

Marion and vicinity continued today to swelter in a heat wave that is the longest of the season for the northern states. Slight relief is indicated by the official weather forecast of generally fair and warm tonight and tomorrow. For Saturday afternoon, however, scattered thundershowers are predicted by observers.

Although the thermometer soared to 94 here yesterday, it still was well below the 101 high point reached a year ago. The lowest reading yesterday was 71 and a year ago it was 73.

The mercury reached 87 here at noon today, according to the official thermometer of Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, government weather observer.

The death toll mounted steadily in the sun-baked northern states. The Associated Press today reported at least 56 persons dead as a result of heat from the Atlantic to Pacific. There were hundreds of prostrations and death by drowning claimed scores among the thousands seeking relief at beaches.

The heat crept toward the Pacific yesterday as Walla Walla, Wash., sweltered in 96 degree weather, Lamar, Colo., recorded 102 as did Atlantic, Ia., the day's hottest spots east of the Rockies.

Little change in temperature was in sight outside of New York and New England where slightly cooler weather was predicted. Cloudless skies were seen except in portions of the Middle Atlantic states and the lower lake region.

WASHINGTON, July 9 — Rep. Fish, Republican of New York, told to a congressional investigating committee today that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had availed herself of a tax loophole.

He was told in return.

"All your testimony is pure and unadulterated hearsay."

Rep. Vinson, Democrat of Kentucky, made that answer to Fish, who represents President Roosevelt's home district, after subjecting the New Yorker to biting questioning.

"What are you doing by smearing?" Vinson asked.

STORMS MAY DELAY SEARCH FOR AMELIA

Wheat Crop Flow Starts To Marion Co. Elevators

Price Substantially Higher Than Last Year but Grade of Early Receipts Is Lower.

First Marion county wheat began pouring into elevators yesterday as farmers, encouraged by bright sunshine and the golden hue of their grain, put combine harvesters into the fields.

A checkup among elevators showed the flow of wheat will get into full swing today and tomorrow if favorable weather continues.

No. 2 wheat was quoted at $1.14 a bushel today as the harvest got under way, a substantial increase over the average price of 94 cents a bushel quoted a year ago. However, it appeared that much of the wheat would not meet the requirements of No. 2 grade and would reach the market as No. 3 wheat, cutting down the price a few cents to around $1.10.

Heavy spring rains and wind damage contributed to failure of the quality of the wheat to measure up to last year's crop, elevator operators said.

The high moisture content in some wheat cut yesterday threatened to hurt farmers' income from the crop when an elevator rejected some wheat that tested 17 per cent moisture. However, the moisture content of other wheat in the county ranged as low as 12 per cent, a desirable percentage.

Harvesting had not progressed at noon today to the point where figures were available on the yield per acre.

Floyd Uncapher, manager of the Green Camp elevator, said wheat was received yesterday from the farms of Ernest Rothfuss, west of Green Camp, and Mrs. Hulda Morris of near Green Camp, the harvest from the latter farm being shifted to the Marion Milling Co.

The Rothfuss farm wheat, representing the first cuts in a 20-acre field, tested 55 to 58 pounds per bushel, "not nearly so good as last year's crop," Uncapher said.

Wheat from the farm of Mrs. Morris tested 57½ pounds to the bushel and was graded as No. 3 wheat. If later cuts advance the grade to No. 2, weighing 58 and 59 a bushel, the crop can be marketed for $1.11 a bushel the price generally quoted in the county today for No. 2 wheat.

Mrs. Morris yesterday turned in 230 bushels of wheat.

First at Caledonia

The J. A. Resler elevator at Caledonia reported receipt of first wheat from the 50-acre field of L. E. Weir of one and one-half miles south of Kirkpatrick yesterday. The test was from 56 to 58 pounds a bushel and Weir's stand of wheat was regarded as better than the average for the county but not measuring up to last year's. The Resler elevator also expected grain today from the 50-acre field of the Longacre brothers a mile north of Caledonia.

The Farm Bureau station at LaRue said wheat is due today from the 12-acre field of Milton Markey of near LaRue and the Homer Heller farm near Agosta.

The Waldo Elevator reported it will receive wheat today from the 18-acre crop of Oscar Mautz of four miles northwest of Waldo.

The F. J. Laubis elevator at LaRue reported Frank Wilson of two miles south of LaRue began cutting yesterday.

Delaware Hardin Counties

First wheat of the 1937 crop to reach mills at Delaware arrived yesterday from the Ernest Jones farm near Bellpoint. The wheat tested 57½ pounds lower than last year. The price quoted at Delaware was $1.13 a bushel.

W. W. McConnell operator of elevators at Alger and McGuffey, reported receipt of the first wheat Thursday when 1,000 bushels rolled into the McGuffey mill from Bert McPherson of near Roundhead. The grain tested 55½ pounds per bushel measure, being considerably lighter than standard grain, and showed 12.5 per cent of moisture content. McConnell paid $1.15 per bushel for the graining and reported that much more grain would be flowing into local elevators for this week from combine harvesters.

FIRST GUARDS RETURN HOME

Detachment Back from Duty in Eastern Ohio Steel Strike Zone.

MORE COMING BACK TODAY

Relieved as Local Authorities Take Over Task of Maintaining Peace.

Fifteen members of Headquarters Co., one of Marion's two National Guard units that have been on strike duty in eastern Ohio since June 22, came back to Marion late yesterday by truck, their work at least temporarily ended. Eight other members of the same company who remained on duty in Massillon were expected to return to Marion today.

Meanwhile, D Co. of Marion remained on duty at Warren with the members uncertain as to when they would be released from duty.

Members of Headquarters Co who returned to Marion yesterday arrived at the armory at 5:15 p. m. Most of them had not been home since they left June 22 for the Youngstown strike area. Both companies remained in and near Youngstown until around July 1 when Headquarters Co. went to Massillon and D Co. to Warren.

School buildings have been pressed into living quarters for the guardsmen since they left Marion, and their manner of living has been controlled by strict army discipline. Long hours at the schools where they were quartered, always subject to call for emergency service, were broken only by patrol duty.

The visit home will be only a short one because the guardsmen will go to Camp Perry July 18 for two weeks of camp training.

Departure of the Marion troops from Massillon yesterday and today was made possible when local authorities took charge of the patrol work by adding to the police forces.

Marion troops who returned home yesterday are Second Lieut. Charles Whyrall, Sergeants Herman L. Fischer, Carl M. Hughes, John R. Kesselring, Don W. McAninch, Corporals Kenneth L. Hecker, Ernest A. Luchau, Presley P. Throckmorton, Private, first class, Don Ruth, Privates John C. Benge, James W. Dykes, Harold M. Haycox, Wilbur L. Holtsberry, George W. Kreitzer, John E. Midlam and Edwin C. Reid.

Those due to arrive here today are First Lieut. Walter E. Mathiot, Staff Sergeant Arthur E. Amick, Corp. Homer M. Haines, First Class Private Clyde H. Smith, Private S. Murray Gast, Walter W. Ruth and Richard H. F. Sprow.

WHAT ARE CHARGES?

"Plenty, Your Honor," Patrolman Will Tell Judge.

Robert Evans, about 30, of Upper Sandusky, was arrested last night at 9:30 o'clock on state route 23, at Little Sandusky, on a charge of reckless driving by highway patrolmen from the Marion sub-station. Evans was accused by patrolmen of operating a motor vehicle with four persons in the front seat, driving with only one headlight, with disregarding an officer's signal to stop and with operating an automobile without carrying a drivers' license with him. He was cited to appear before Mayor Oscar Veith at 8 o'clock, Saturday night.

DOGS ATTACK SHEEP FLOCK, 12 ARE KILLED

Two Months of Quiet End as Raid Is Made in Richland Township.

After nearly two months of quiet with only three sheep claims amounting to $86 filed, dogs broke out again yesterday in Richland township and attacked a valuable flock of approximately 65 sheep belonging to Karl Beckel, County Dog Warden Elmer Ullom reported today. The flock, started several years ago by Beckel as a 4-H club project, suffered the loss of 12 sheep killed and 10 injured. The claim was for $150.

As a result of the attack a nearby farmer killed his German police dog and another man, William Rengert, was arrested and fined $10 and assessed $4 costs for failure to license his dog. Hailed into the court of Justice of Peace Melvin Strine at Waldo yesterday, Rengert was quoted by Mr. Ullom as saying he would not pay the fine. Justice Strine gave him until tomorrow to pay.

Mr. Ullom said he has evidence indicating that Rengert's dog and the police dog, and a third not yet located, are connected with the attack. Two of the sheep were dead when discovered and 10 others had to be killed.

Since May 18 there have been only three sheep claims, one on June 7, one on June 10, and one on June 14, totaling $85, Mr. Ullom said. It is the lowest amount for any similar period since he became warden in 19[illegible].

Marion Greets Circus Here for Two Showings

Drake Lot on Fairground Street Busy Spot Today; Last Show Tonight.

The world's largest circus, Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey combined shows, is in Marion today for two performances at the Drake lot on East Fairground street. At the unloading at the Erie railroad siding on Greenwood street, hundreds of persons watched the spectacle as approximately 1,600 show members and 2,000 animals arrived early this morning.

The afternoon performance today was scheduled for 2 p. m. and the evening show will begin at 8 p. m. The gates will be opened an hour before show time to permit those attending to view the menagerie.

Several hundred watched the unloading, many of them arriving long before daybreak at the siding. They saw one of the most unusual sights to be seen: 700 horses, 1,000 menagerie animals all caged and seven herds of elephants rolling off the cars in wagons and trailing down the darkened streets to the show grounds. Elephants were used to aid in the movements.

At the grounds, men with tapelines moved about carefully measuring the lot to plan the placing of the tents and wagons.

The task of setting up the 31 separate tents, seven rings, and placing of 267 wagons in their proper places was completed this morning a few hours after the circus arrived from Akron. Immediately after the evening performance the show will pack up and entrain for Mansfield.

The opening event on the program is entitled "India" and is a pageant employing 2,000 persons and animals. Lighting effects draw on many of the seven portable power plants used by the circus.

AUTO BACKFIRE CAUSES ACCIDENT

Marion Workman's Eye Endangered by Injury.

Ralph L. Valentine of 220 Ellis court is in danger of losing the sight of his right eye from injuries suffered in a fall late Wednesday afternoon, a Marion eye surgeon who is attending him reported today.

Valentine struck his eye against a radiator cap emblem when an automobile motor backfired while he was cranking it. The crank threw him off balance and pulled him forward against the emblem. The accident occurred at the Carl Stier paint shop at 247 North Main street, where Valentine is employed.

The surgeon said the impact bruised the eyeball and caused a dislocation of the lens. Three or four weeks will be required to determine whether or not the eye can be saved, he said.

PRESENT TIME HELD CRITICAL

Airmen Definitely Eliminate Winslow Reef as Possible Landing Place.

136,000 MILES SCANNED

Fliers Continue To Comb Area South and West of Phoenix and Howland Isles.

By The Associated Press

HONOLULU, July 9—Equatorial rain squalls threatened to interrupt the search for Amelia Earhart which navy airmen considered was entering its most crucial phase today.

Despite a forecast of rain and poor visibility, officers aboard the battleship Colorado planned to catapult her three planes aloft again in expectation of completing an aerial search of the Phoenix islands tomorrow.

Today and Saturday, they said they felt, was the most critical period since the coast guard cutter started the search just a week ago.

Area Thoroughly Combed

Airmen felt in flights yesterday and Wednesday they definitely eliminated the possibility she was in the area around Winslow reef.

By sea and air search for the missing aviatrix and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan, has encompassed approximately 136,000 square miles without even sighting some of the shoals and sand spits supposed to exist in the vast area.

The fliers vanished a week ago today in an attempt to fly the 2,750 miles from Lae New Guinea, to Howland island, a dot of land but two feet above the sea.

The Colorado's fliers, awaiting aid over the week-end from the aircraft carrier Lexington's plane armada, today planned to swing southward once again but come back on a course west of the Phoenix and Howland Islands.

This expedition would cover area previously unexplored by the coast guard cutter Itasca, which carried on the search alone for days near Howland islands before the Colorado sped southward from Hawaii, more than 1,500 miles away.

Planes To Finish Hunt

Planes from the Colorado were expected to complete search of the Phoenix group before arrival of the Lexington, being refuelled at Lahaina roads, near Honolulu.

The $40,000,000 aircraft carrier, which sped from San Diego to Hawaii, was expected to get away for the 1,600-mile dash to the search area today and spread her brood of planes probably next Monday.

Last reported in the vicinity of Baker island, 40 miles south of Howland, the Itasca planned to continue search southward to the Phoenix group, aided by the mine sweeper Swan.

Should today's search prove fruitless for the aviatrix, the naval fliers planned to spend Saturday combing the northeast portions of the Phoenix group, including Canton island, largest of the chain.

Rear Admiral O. G. Murfin, 14th naval district commandant and director of the search, expressed belief the success or failure of the hunt should be known by Monday, after the Lexington's planes, capable of covering 60,000 square miles daily, begin explorations.

Radio amateurs in Hawaii and on the mainland continued to report interception of messages they interpreted as being from the aviatrix, but coast guard and naval operators said they had not heard them, and in most instances pointed out the reported calls were on frequencies not used by the aviatrix.

As the extent of the hunt widened, the belief has steadily grown that Miss Earhart and Noonan never would be found.

R. H. Bryan, Jr., of the Bishop Museum here, who visited five of the eight Phoenix islands in 1924, expressed the opinion that a landing would have been possible on either Canton or Enderbury islands, and might be possible on McKean and Birnie islands.

George Palmer Putnam, Miss Earhart's husband, maintained his

As the result of a nine-inning battle to a 5-5 deadlock between the Keytown Camp and Huber softball teams, and a 1 to 0 defeat for Defiance at the hands of the Fairfield club, the Campers and Marion Steam Shovel aggregations today share the top row of the Industrial softball league standings.

The Campers and Shovel outfits have but one defeat each to mar their season records, while both today have a tie game to be played off. The Diggers previously played a deadlocked contest with the Defiance team, both clubs scoring two runs over an eight-inning route. Huber's entry, off to a slow early season start, is asserting itself in no small way, moving up from the field to an undisputed grip on third place.

Huber's club has a record of five victories in seven starts and heads the flashy Defiance Pressed Steel team by a one-half game margin. Defiance, defeated 1 to 0 in an eight-inning fracas by the Fairfield club last night, dropped to the lowest point position it has held this season, fourth place, one and one-half games behind the leaders. M. S. S. added its sixth win by trouncing the Omar Bakers 8 to 2, and Excavator romped to a 14 to 5 victory over Osgood in other games last night.

That the Fairfield club, with Maury Whitcum pitching three-hit ball, pulled the unexpected in upsetting the Defiance entry is seen by the fact that the winning team still remains in fifth position, three full games out of first place. Huber softballers inaugurated a ninth-inning uprising which although it didn't win their game, put the contest in the books as a tie, necessitating a play-off.

After the Campers had scored four runs in the first of the fifth, and added another tally in the following inning, Huber's club came through with three in the sixth and a pair of runs in the seventh to send the fracas into extra innings. The complete scores by innings of the games last night follow:

MAX HAS AS GOOD A CLAIM TO THE CROWN AS JOE--
BURNLEY

BY BURNLEY

JOE LOUIS has finally ascended the topmost throne of fistiana, climaxing the most meteoric rise in recent ring annals.

The gilded kelly resting on Joseph's dusky conk is slightly tarnished, however. There's a big smudge on the crown, marked "Schmeling Kayo."

The Brown Bomber may want to erase that single blot on his otherwise shining record, but he may never get the chance. The canny Max Schmeling knows he is getting old and with each passing day his chances of repeating his triumph over Louis grow more dubious.

The Teuton, if he is as smart as I think he is will rest on his laurels as the only conqueror of Louis. He'll probably meet England's Tommy Farr for European recognition as world's champion.

If Herr Max should finally succumb to the lure of a fat purse and decide to take another crack at the Bomber who would win this time?

Louis showed an improved defense in the Braddock bout, yet the awkward, rusty James floored him with a right. As long as Schmeling is able to throw an accurate straight right with plenty of T. N. T., he'll always be at least an even-money shot to take Jolting Joe again.

LOCALS WINS OVER FOSTORIA, 8 TO 6

cept the final frame. It was Lefty's eighth mound victory this season, against three defeats.

First scoring came in the second inning when the visitors chalked up three runs on three singles and a pair of Marion errors. Godlewski, Petrokovic and Eley were credited with the bingles, while miscues were chalked up against Buster Stiewe, shortstop, and Geygan at second. In the big third frame, Mulvihill started Marion's assault with a double, Spence was safe on an error, Stiewe walked, Robbins got a fielder's choice, Platek flied to deep center, Swed was passed, Geygan singled, Kauffman was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second, and Mulvihill ended the inning as he flied out to center.

With but one hit the Geyganites shoved across another marker in the sixth inning. Platek singled through second, went to second on a passed ball and scored after Geygan walked and the Birds attempted a double play on Kauffman's infield bounder. First Baseman Petrokovic's throw to the plate was out of the catcher's reach, permitting Kauffman to advance to second, where he was stranded when Harris flied to center for the third out.

An eighth inning scoring spree opened with two out, when Swed was passed to first, and Karl Kauffman, centerfielder, singled to left field. With Swed on third and Kauffman occupying first, Mike Harris slammed out a double to right and Mulvihill singled to give Marion a five-run lead going into the final inning.

Marion fans had the jitters for a few moments in the final frame when, with one out, Godlewski doubled, Petrokovic singled and Venarri walked. With the bases loaded Spence fanned Eley for the second out and Rex Bowen, playing manager of the Birds, came to bat. Bowen smacked his first hit of the day, a double to left field, scoring the three final-inning runs. The barrage was halted when the next batter, Gillis, bounded to Spence and was tossed out at first.

At Findlay yesterday, home runs by George Simon and Fritz Klann, coupled with a double by Roth and a trio of singles produced six runs to enable the Browns to upset the league leading Mansfield Red Sox, 6 to 4. Mansfield retaliated in the seventh with three runs and added a one score in the ninth. The defeat ended Mansfield's current winning streak at five games.

RED BIRDS DIVIDE TWIN BILL HONORS WITH INDIANAPOLIS

Indians Take First, 11 to 1, and Yield to Columbus, 5 to 3 in Nightcap.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 9—For a team which is far down in the American Association team batting standings, the scrappy Toledo Mud Hens certainly can raise plenty of havoc with opposing pitchers.

The Hens showing no signs of giving up their fight to take the circuit lead away from Minneapolis, walloped Louisville 19 to 5 last night. It was Toledo's fourth straight win from the Colonels, and the manner in which the victory was achieved was evidence of batting strength which has the Hens into the thick of the pennant fight after finishing in the cellar last season.

The Hens, in massaging the offerings of four Colonel flingers, got 10 runs in the first three innings, scoring six times in the third. They wound up their assault by scoring four runs in the fifth, three more in the sixth, and lone markers in the seventh and eighth, collecting a total of 18 hits.

Indianapolis collected 15 hits to down Columbus 11 to 1 in the first game of a double bill. In the second game Columbus outlasted the Indians, winning 5 to 3 in 11 innings.

Milwaukee dropped a 4 to 3 decision to St. Paul, with Bill Cox besting George Blaeholder in a close pitching duel.

Another pitching battle marked Kansas City's 5 to 4 win over Minneapolis, which enabled Toledo to creep up on the Millers.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

ABSENCE OF PUPILS COSTS COUNTY $10,110

Special to The Star

KENTON, July 9—The absence of 288 pupils of the Hardin county public school system each day of the 1936-37 term resulted in a loss of $10,110.60 for school purposes, County Supt. F. C. Ransdell revealed today in his annual statistical report.

Although the net enrollment was 3,194, only 2,905.8 pupils attended each day of the 158-day term, the report set forth.

TEACHER EMPLOYED

MT. GILEAD, July 9 — Paul Riskey, who has taught at the Westfield school in the Cardington school district for the last two years, has been employed to teach the Climax school next year.

NEW HARDIN COUNTY SCHOOL MAY BE BUILT

$150,000 Bond Issue To Be Submitted to Voters of District in November.

Special to The Star

KENTON, July 9—The Hardin Central board of education will submit a $150,000 bond issue to residents of the district in November, for the purpose of purchasing land and erecting a modern, fireproof school building capable of instructing 600 pupils in 12 grades of elementary and high school study, it was announced today.

The district, comprised of parts of Buck, Dudley, Goshen, Pleasant, Cessna and Lynn townships and entirely circling the Kenton Union School District, has a taxing evaluation of $5,500,000. Architects have estimated that it will require between $140,000 and $150,000 to erect the type of building contemplated.

Included in an enrollment of 600 pupils will be some 137 boys and girls who last year attended Kenton High school, leaders said.

The Kenton board of education has been attempting to interest the Hardin Central district in consolidating with the local district, using Kenton grade buildings and assisting in erection of a new high school building. The plan has gained little favor in the rural territory affected, it was indicated.

A gas burning water heater for kitchens has been invented that is so thoroughly insulated that its top can be used for a table while the gas is burning.

HEAT CAUSES BLOW-OUTS. PREVENT THESE BLOW-OUTS WITH THE HEAT RESISTING GOLDEN PLY

● The thousands who are killed or injured in blow-out accidents every year are tragic proof that it does not pay to gamble on tires. At 40, 50, 60 miles an hour the inside of your tire gets as hot as boiling water—rubber and fabric begin to separate—a tiny blister forms—and sooner or later—BANG! It's a blow-out! Don't take this desperate chance. Come in today and let us put a set of Goodrich Safety Silvertowns on your car—the only tire in the world with the remarkable Life-Saver Golden Ply blow-out protection.

Marriage Meddlers

BY ADELE GARRISON

[illegible] Tells Maybe Why Veritzen Would Not Want to Meet Queen Olga.

"I [illegible] what I said," [illegible] rmakly to an- [illegible] concerning Phil [illegible] toward Queen [illegible]

[illegible] good author- [illegible] Olga would [illegible] see him squirm [illegible] battery at- [illegible]

[illegible] persisted. "She [illegible] his youth, and [illegible] the glamour of [illegible] her. You re- [illegible] couplet—I'm not [illegible] exactly, but it [illegible] like this: 'Young [illegible] love is tender, [illegible] all things is a [illegible]

[illegible] if true," Lil- [illegible] but that does not apply to Phil Veritzen. He's had so many loves, young, old and revived, that he can't keep track of 'em. I think, at that, Olga would be the best bet. But, Dearest, as I told you before, our Philip realized that fateful night on the boat, when the royal women were saved from death by your father and the government men, that Queen Olga is an old woman, or, at least she looked like one that night.

Queen Without Rank

"She was a queen divested of all the trapping of rank and the artifices by which women conceal their age. He must have had a shock that night, old Phil. When Olga was a girl she was a toast in European royal circles. And she kept her beauty through the years remarkably well. When she was over here a few years ago, that summer when Olina ran away from the steamer, she was still regally beautiful, a full blown rose, even if a little ragged around the edges. But on the yacht, she was just a hunted, forlorn old woman. And ever since she has been in a hospital, and no woman out of her teens looks like anything in hospital garb.

"Of course," she went on meditatively, "there's the possibility that when Olga gets into civilized garb again, and regains her strength and nerves, she may get back some of her looks. If she's regal enough, Phil may begin to call his memories up from limbo. But just now, darling, the international romance business is as dead as the traditional doornail unless Olina's falling for Noel again. I'll bank on the boy. I think he's immune to any feminine influence except Mary's. But Olina may be reviving a few memories herself."

"I wonder whatever happened to her romance with Georges," I speculated remembering pleasantly the stalwart young prince, later King of Trees who had fallen in love with Mary, as Olina had with Noel and had later consoled himself with the princess as she had with him."

"Olina may break down and tell us some day," Lilian smiled. "Otherwise it will be one of the mysteries of the ages. Poor Georges! There are so many conflicting stories coming out of his war-torn country. Nobody really knows whether he is dead, alive and in flight, or still keeping up a semblance of ruling. But all this isn't solving any puzzles. Have you anything up your sleeves for Mary?"

"Philip Veritzen has," I said. "He wants me to share her apartment and chaperone her."

She stared at me.

"The mystery thickens," she said. "What does Dicky say to that?"

"He approves," I answered. "He says he may need me in New York at any minute, and he'll be glad to have me within call."

"Worse, and more of it," she commented succintly. "Have you thought—?"

She hesitated ever so slightly, and I finished her sentence forthwith

"That Dicky's wish to have me in New York, and his accompanying admission that he was in something of a jam, had something to do with Edith Fairfax's letter? Yes, I have thought of nothing else since he broached the subject."

"Then stop thinking about it," she said. "Ten to one you're imagining things, and I'll root out anything that may be the one chance. Are you planning anything to help Mary?"

"I think Mary is planning something to help herself," I said a bit evasively, for there was not time to tell her in detail of the plan I had evolved to foil Philip Veritzen's plot against Mary if there should prove to be one."

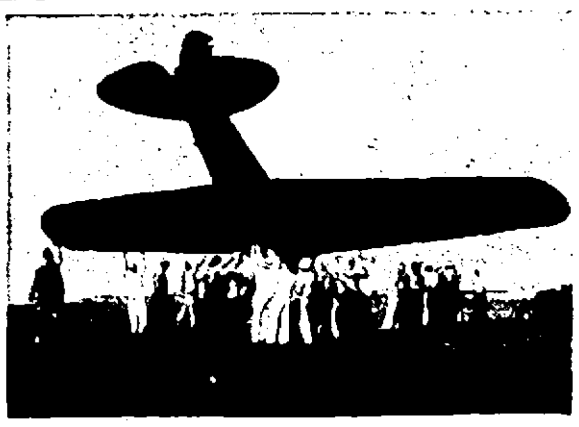
This Isn't First Time Amelia's Been 'Down'



1930—Norfolk, Va.—Amelia's Second Crash.

By the Associated Press

Perhaps the gods were warning Amelia Earhart. A blown-out tire just as she was taking off from Hawaii last March 20 on her first attempt to circle the globe made her quit—but just for the time being.

She had set her heart so strongly on the trip—and crackups were nothing new. In her 19 years of flying, the 39-year-old ladybird had been in four others, with little hurt to herself.

Crash Diary

Remember that first crash? It was Aug. 31, 1928. She was taking the man she later married—George Palmer Putnam—for a ride in a small biplane. She came down to a perfect landing at Pittsburgh, then taxied into an unmarked ditch.

No. 2—Sept. 25, 1930—Norfolk Va. (below)—This time she suffered a slight scalp wound when her plane nosed over after landing. "Too much braking" she explained laconically.

No. 3—June 12, 1931—Abilene Tex.—After a slow takeoff in an autogyro she dropped 30 feet onto some autos but was not injured.

No. 4—Sept. 12, 1931—Detroit—The autogyro again. Trying a slow landing in front of a crowded grandstand. She dropped 20 feet, smashed landing gear and a wing. She wasn't hurt but her husband running toward the wreck, tripped over a guy rope and had to have hospital treatment.

AMELIA EARHART
After First Crash In 1928

"Last Big Flight"

Then came the March crack-up in Hawaii. But that did not discourage the ladybird. She was out to make her "life dream" of flying around the world come true.

It was to have been her last spectacular flight, said her husband. She would settle down—to a "normal life" with her husband in southern California.

So she took off again, heading the other way round the world—and settled down—in the vast, watery wilderness of the southern Pacific.

PROSPECT FESTIVAL SET FOR JULY 14

Special to The Star

PROSPECT, O., July 9—Plans for the annual gift festival, sponsored by the Prospect volunteer fire department, on the evening of July 14 were nearing completion today. A band concert, pie eating contests, games and races of all sorts are being arranged. Proceeds will go to the department for purchase and maintenance of equipment. The event has been staged for a number of years.

Merchants are supplying gifts for contests.

—•The•— Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

Is a husband an absolute necessity in your life—or only a luxury? In these days of highly-paid professions, and business women, he may be either or both—or merely an adornment. But a companionable and charming husband is always an asset, according to that illuminating new book by Marjorie Hillis, "Orchids—On Your Budget."

"Can you afford a husband?" asks the author, and then answers emphatically, YES—if you get your money's worth! "If affection and companionship are worth more to you than trimmings," she declares, "you are foolish not to take the leap as soon as possible. The best-planned budgets are not those that are most drably practical; they are the ones that give the budgeteers the best run for their money."

This should settle one of the vital problems in every working girl's life, whether she be a big butter-and-egg woman, making a screen star's salary, or just a gal who will have to keep her office job after marriage in order to help her struggling young husband meet the bills. An investment in happiness is far more profitable than collecting imported hats or trips to Paris.

Such amazing frankness will probably shock the girl who is looking forward to marriage as a life-holiday and to a husband as a cash-register; but there are very few girls like that in these topsy-turvy days and they are doomed to be shocked anyway.

This column has always maintained that a nice husband is a necessity, even when he's a luxury. Every woman needs a husband around the house, if only to adorn her dinner-table, mix the cocktails, make a fourth at bridge, and incidentally to provide her with a strong shoulder to cry on in weak moments.

There always have been some husbands who were more ornamental than profitable. "The most delightful people," as Miss Hillis points out, "are seldom big money-makers. And if the one you have in mind is, like so many eligible and charming men, a non-money-maker—and you still prefer him to a larger apartment or a trip to Europe, why not take him on? It may be an extravagance, but even periods of strict economy should include some extravagances."

But—and this is the joker—whether you take on a husband as a working-partner or just as a playmate or as both, be sure to see that you get your money's worth! The business woman who exchanges loneliness in a suite at the Ritz for companionship and live in a kitchenette apartment gets a swell bargain. Only, make certain that the man you marry is square enough or loves you enough to give you quid pro quo by making your life gayer, happier and more worth while, and that he will give you companionship instead of a run-around.

Every woman pays a high price for marriage, and so does every man, even when there is no money involved. They pay in a thousand sacrifices. But if you get value received, any marriage is worth the price!

In the Subjunctive Mood

The [illegible] what it means the [illegible] at the end of the year. If they [illegible] because [illegible] the [illegible] pinched the pennies. Hilliard [illegible] who pays the grocer knows [illegible] ask.

It would have been more reassuring, therefore, if President Roosevelt had steered clear of the subjunctive mood in his economy letter to department heads. Instead of saying reserves should equal 10 per cent of all funds from which reserves may be drawn, Mr. Roosevelt would have done better to say they must equal 10 per cent.

Both the spenders and [illegible] provide a would have been more impressed. It is plain by that time that the President knew what he was talking about when he said once that many liberal governments are to grief on the rocks of a loose fiscal policy. It is not plain yet that his own liberal administration is willing to do what must be done to keep it off the rocks.

Politicians have been saying expenses should be cut for decades. Once in a while one of them said expenses must be cut. Less frequently one of them really meant it and proceeded to make himself unpopular by cutting them. The country owes a great debt to them: they steered away from the rocks of a loose fiscal policy.

The United States wants to think that Mr. Roosevelt, whose present term extends till 1941, intends to do more than wishful thinking about budget balancing. To the extent that his intention can be revealed by a word it is disappointed in his choice of "should" instead of "must" to convey his policy on saving to department heads.

Punching The Timeclock

Congress hasn't been getting much attention because the Washington sounding board which magnifies its activities has been getting too much competition from the Mahoning valley.

When the representatives and senators return to their desks this week their time cards will look like this:

The house has met on 115 of the 151 week days from Jan. 5 to July 2, with an average daily session of 4 hours and 17 minutes. The senate has met on 89 days with an average session of 2 hours and 59 minutes.

Sessions hereafter will be longer because one of two things is bound to happen. Either congress will try to complete its work and adjourn early, or leaders will pile more proposals on the desk and try to increase the congressional load with a view to getting action from the legislators as they become confused and exhausted. A filibuster on supreme court reorganization is a possibility.

This is the way representative democracy works. It is not admirable perhaps but it seems to be inevitable. The tendency always is to wait as long as possible then to rush pell-mell for adjournment. It has been going on for years and no one has been trampled to death yet though what happens to bills both good and bad in the melee is too sad to contemplate.

Forced To A Last Stand

Administration strategy on supreme court packing is clear. Rebuffed in its original onslaught the court packing group next will try to trample down the opposition with a so-called compromise which is really the same proposal changed in certain details to give it a slightly different appearance.

The aim of this strategy is of course to wedge opponents into a position which will make them appear to be refusing a compromise. They know that the revised proposal is a Trojan horse. They are by no means sure they can block the deception by convincing the public that it should continue to maintain its opposition to the court packers. Everything depends on that.

Forced to a last stand, senators fighting the proposal will have no choice but to resort to a filibuster, one of the least admirable of legislative maneuvers. The court packers are counting on that fact. They are determined to rule or to ruin. Their tactics threaten disruption of the Democratic party and alienation of many of the orthodox liberals who have been supporting the Roosevelt program, but they hold that to be of no consequence compared with the supremacy they thirst for and intend to win.

Here as in all other phases of the momentous struggle over the attack on the judiciary, will be a test of the political intelligence of the American public. Every thing possible to confuse the citizenry has been tried in connection with the court packing proposal. One more trick is in the bag. When it is pulled out the struggle to maintain a fundamental principle of constitutional government will be won or lost depending on the public's ability to detect this final brazen piece of deception.

The Meaning Is Doubtful

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1937 by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, July [illegible]—[illegible] Frances Perkins [illegible] President [illegible] Mr. Lewis [illegible] Secretary Roper says [illegible] should be [illegible].

"To the CIO [illegible] President Roosevelt [illegible] the [illegible] of the [illegible] had [illegible] the members [illegible].

If the [illegible] for the White House this week it would have occasioned [illegible] surprise than what was [illegible] by the President [illegible] the United States.

In the [illegible] the history of labor warfare [illegible] the [illegible] as a [illegible] order [illegible] is [illegible] by the secretary of commerce [illegible] the country [illegible] every [illegible] local [illegible] to work [illegible] Governor Murphy [illegible] and other aspects of the labor controversy in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan might be expected [illegible] to [illegible] in the United States. The news [illegible] the [illegible] and again [illegible] Secretary Roper thought the same thing.

There [illegible] by the secretary of labor [illegible] for more than two months [illegible] on the sitdown strikes were legal. For many weeks the nation has looked for some word on this [illegible] from the administration in Washington. When it came [illegible] press conference [illegible] millions of [illegible] newspaper [illegible] can [illegible] of the Roosevelt administration [illegible].

The Question Is Answered

But when the press conference was held this week and the correspondents [illegible] the meaning [illegible] curious answer [illegible].

Asked [illegible] labor [illegible] all [illegible] strikes the President replied that he had not read it—[illegible] the headlines.

Asked about [illegible] statement by the secretary of commerce, Mr. Roosevelt answered that he had not read that pronouncement either.

How can two members of the cabinet make [illegible] on the subject of labor [illegible] without the President knowing [illegible] what they [illegible] going to say? If Mr. Roosevelt was merely [illegible] and try [illegible] to avoid [illegible] question [illegible] may have meant that he had not read [illegible] the newspapers and it might have meant that he actually read it or was acquainted with the substance before the statement was issued.

Mr. [illegible] on his [illegible] did not undertake to explain the discrepancy and since the correspondents are fearful to the President in [illegible] conferences they did not [illegible] an explanation of what [illegible] the surface to be an unfortunate [illegible].

If [illegible] the President did not know in advance what two members of his cabinet were preparing to say on labor policy, that would tend to give the impression that cabinet members speak their individual views and in no way reflect the administration's viewpoint as a whole or the President's policy in particular.

Not so long ago, on the other hand, President Roosevelt told the press he, when the executives of General Motors declined an invitation from the secretary of labor for a conference, it was tantamount to rejecting an invitation from the President of the United States. From this reason it has been generally inferred that What Miss Perkins says on labor policy is a close reflection of the President's own viewpoint.

What possible explanation is there for Mr. Roosevelt's desire to conceal the [illegible] that he knew about the Perkins and Roper statements in advance, and why, [illegible] he gave the impression that he personally was not aware of their contents before publication or that he was neither approving nor disapproving what they said?

Sop To Conservatives

The only inference that seems logical is that President Roosevelt wanted the CIO leaders to know that the two cabinet members were saying what they did merely as a sop to the conservatives and that it was done to check the wave of hostility which has been rising against the administration's alliance with the CIO. Indeed newspaper headlines in publicity friendly to the administration disclosed about the same time rumors of a break between Mr. Lewis and the President, which news was calculated to cheer the hearts of an aroused middle class and make the [illegible] feel that the administration was really preparing to checkmate the excesses of labor zealots.

But there is no secret about the fact that Mr. Roosevelt from the beginning has been somewhat irritated over Mr. Lewis's [illegible] in power and methods and that more than once Mr. Lewis has learned of this dissatisfaction. On one such occasion Mr. Lewis did not hesitate publicly to remind the President that he was under obligation to the CIO. From that day forward there has been little if any comment from the White House that could even remotely be construed as unfavorable to the CIO. The exception was a casual remark the other day from the President about "a plague on both your houses," a quotation which was designed to be an evenly balanced pronouncement from a President of the United States in a grave crisis on the subject of domestic [illegible].

Naturally Mr. Lewis wouldn't like such a comment. But he is much too shrewd to be misled by it. Irritated though he may be for the moment Mr. Roosevelt might break with Mr. Lewis in the sense that he might manifest a little less enthusiasm for his friend John's policies, but in the last analysis the President can't break with the CIO because the CIO did more than any other single organization to elect [illegible]

Merely Noise

FILIBUSTER, which usually [illegible] to get attention about this time of year when congress begins to think of adjournment, is [illegible] a fancy name for a long, loud voice.

Originally it applied to a person rather than an act [illegible] in that meaning it was a synonym for buccaneer. It was applied first in the 17th century to freebooters who raided the Caribbean and South American coasts. In the 19th century it was used to describe persons who fitted out armed expeditions from the United States against countries with which the government was enjoying peaceful relations. From this usage the term grew to designate civil opposition of a minority to the will of a majority in the legislative process.

It is interesting to note that there is as much talk of filibustering as usual this year despite the claim that the 20th amendment to the Constitution would eliminate it by abolishing short (lame duck) sessions of congress. Even the first congressional session under the amendment did not lead [illegible] that [illegible] intention. That was the session in which the late Huey Long conducted two major filibusters, one against extension of the NRA, the other against the work relief bill. In the same session other southern senators filibustered against the antilynching bill. Adjournment was postponed by filibustering to force action on neutrality legislation. Other filibusters were staged in connection with the ship subsidy bill, the food and drug bill, TVA amendments and flood control proposals.

The procedure of conducting a filibuster is simple. Taking advantage of the rules on unlimited debate, a senator gets the floor and holds it as long as his voice holds out. In the early part of the century a senator forced the senate to pass an unwarranted claim to his state merely by threatening to read [illegible] and other poems until the claim was granted. The Republicans in the senate back in 1890-91 continued a debate once for 40 days to [illegible] of four days without [illegible].

As was pointed out in connection with sitdown strikes [illegible] only an application of labor [illegible] strategy that all children employ instinctively to carry on an argument, the filibuster is nothing more mysterious than another device of children [illegible] long, loud noise to reduce the [illegible] to a state of exhaustion.

The New Premier

BY KENNETH T. DOWNS

International News Service Correspondent

PARIS, July 9—Tall, dark, lean and 52, Camille Chautemps, new premier of France, is regarded as one of the most [illegible] lobbyists of the nation.

Chautemps wears an amused, slightly cynical attitude. But he has an abundance of charm and is popular alike with men and women.

His teeth are very white and flash under his black moustache when he smiles. Looking down on him from the chamber gallery you notice he has a bald patch in the middle of his head.

He is slight and dapper. You would hardly suspect that he once was the star center three-quarter on the Racing club's national championship rugby team. He is an ardent sportsman.

Premier Twice Before

Chautemps has been premier twice before. He did not last long either time. His first cabinet in 1930 lasted five days. His second formed on Dec. 2, 1933, crashed in February, 1934, after the terrible February sixth.

The premier comes from a distinguished old family. His father, Emile Chautemps, was senator from the Haute-Savoie for many years and was several times a cabinet member. Chautemps' two brothers were killed in the war.

Chautemps was elected a deputy from the Indre-et-Loire department (where the Windsors were married) in 1919. He has been in politics since. He is looked upon as moderate and "safe" and is a member of the Radical Socialist party, which isn't the kind of a party it sounds like. It represents the bourgeoisie, the shopkeepers, small business men and farmers. The party would lie somewhere between our Republican and Democratic parties.

Held Many Offices

Since 1924 Chautemps has been minister of interior, justice, interior (again), education and interior (once more) in the succession of governments beginning with the first Herriot cabinet. In 1934 after his own overthrow he became president of the Radical Socialists in the Chamber and held this post until Blum named him minister of state in June, 1936.

Chautemps is one of the foremost corporation lawyers of the country and is conceded to be the most capable lobbyist. He owns land in the Indre-et-Loire and is moderately wealthy. He is married and has two children.

Gen. Lewis Wallace, though a native of Indiana, may be considered as one of Ohio's civil war heroes by adoption. His administration during the siege of Cincinnati probably prevented the capital invasion of the state. He served with distinction at Ft. Donelson and Shiloh. However, on July 9, 1864, he was defeated by General Early in the Battle of Monocacy.

Lew Wallace, as he was usually known, was the author of the celebrated work Ben Hur. He also wrote other works and served as governor of Utah and minister to Turkey.

Details of New Michigan Labor Law

MICHIGAN, first of the states to deal with the problem of preserving a semblance of constitutional authority in the face of organized labor's new strike technique, has passed a law with a view to meeting future emergencies. Gov. Murphy is expected to approve it.

Explaining the law in an interview, Gov. Murphy said he believed government should be impartial in labor disputes. Apparently the governor meant impartial, not neutral, because he went on to explain that the new law gives the state power to investigate labor difficulties and to take various actions to keep them from getting out of hand.

Thus picketing at a place of employment affected by a dispute, or at the residence of an employe, is forbidden when it interferes with unimpeded use of a highway or interferes with passage to and from a plant or residence. The law forbids picketing of a plant by any person who is neither an employe, a party to the dispute, nor an official of a labor organization which is a party to the dispute. If enforced, this provision would mean the end of mass picketing, the device by which minorities attempt to close plants to majorities.

Sees Improvement

Asked to what he attributed the absence of any important strike in Michigan at this time, Gov. Murphy replied:

"To a growing sense of responsibility and more reasoned mature judgment on the part of the labor leaders. For the first time since the General Motors settlement there is not a single stoppage of work in a General Motors plant." He continued:

"The sitdown in my opinion is largely over with. Public opinion is getting in effective work. There also is a growing progressive view on the part of industrialists in recognizing the fundamental rights of labor. There is no hostility to such recognition in most industrial circles."

The new Michigan labor act, Gov. Murphy explained, is different from the Wagner act. It in no sense regulates by compulsion. It guarantees all the rights of labor. It offers every facility for conciliation, mediation and arbitration on a voluntary basis. It places no restraint on the right to strike. It legalizes peaceful picketing. It restricts the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

Keeps Paths Cleared

It prohibits the blocking of public highways. It prohibits the blocking of ingress to or egress from places of employment. Abuses of this sort have caused a great deal of trouble.

I think we are near to industrial peace. The country does not need to [illegible] strike ridden if [illegible] [illegible] will proceed to bring about settlement of every strike by [illegible] the parties to the controversy together in a sensible way."

What Gov. Murphy described as new features in labor relations are contained in Chapter IV of the law. This, which contains provisions restricting picketing and the use of injunctions in labor disputes, reads in part as follows:

"Section [illegible] Nothing contained in this act shall be [illegible] an employer [illegible] an all [illegible] agreement [illegible] employes shall be required to be a member of one or more labor organizations.

"Section [illegible] Nothing in this act shall be construed to require any person to perform any work or continue in the service of any employe [illegible] his free will

Roaming Reporter in New Role

NEW YORK, July 9—Though while [illegible] Italy before Mussolini — strikes [illegible] nothing but strikes. Jim [illegible] Tay Garnett, the Damont Brothers, Rose [illegible] Harry R[illegible], Jack Pearl. The [illegible] comedian Tom Howard. Now a radio feature.

This [illegible] stuff: A perfume already [illegible] in honor of the Windsor Duchess. Add [illegible] red heads: Burgess Meredith. No comedian can look as [illegible] as Ted Lewis. Name any popular song of the past 25 years and the A. P.'s Kent Cooper can play it on the piano by ear.

Talent with outstanding [illegible]: Noel Coward, Fred Astaire and Clark Gable. To put over a song I'll take Sophie Tucker and Harry Richman. George Abbott has taken George S. Kaufman's place as theater's No. 1 Miracle Man. That twinkly Lois Long smile.

No many masters of ceremonies can top George Jessel in dressing up an introduction. Frank Chapman is almost out-duding Lucius Beebe these days. Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, the zoo reptile expert. Once a newspaperman himself, Edwin Balmer doesn't walk, he zooms.

Rhyme Whiskers by Billy De Beck are the funnies. By Heck. When a great man dies I think of the poet's line about Lincoln: "A giant oak toppled and left a void against the sky." The town always seems just a little bit livelier when Gene Fowler is in our midst. And that's personality.

Possibly after quite a lapse has heard from Ned Welsh, once a roaming reporter on the old Morning Telegraph. He described himself as "The grave of a million high balls." And was always where the crowds were thickest and lights brightest. One of his contemporaries was with Charlie Somerville, who covered Flo'days for the Morning World. Somerville was the first [illegible] to sport a gold headed cane [illegible] to him from the actor Sir Forbes Robertson. In those days the long bar of the Hotel Marlborough was a rendezvous for journalistic aristocrats. Across the way was the Herald which contributed its quota to the Marlborough trade. No space has somehow seemed a more enchanted calling in those days. Crack men of the profession cared only for life and its excitements. To the world they were models of modesty, but to their fellows they had the bluster of Edmund Kean, setting down tankards with a bang and roaring contempt for city editors. Quick, then moody, they lived hard and dangerously. Few reached 50.

There are many conjectures as to the age of Major Bowes. He confesses to 50 and a little b[illegible]. My private guess is that he is flirting with the late 50s. But few wear years so lightly. He has the enthusiasm of the 20s plus the energies of the 30s. He goes through his mail personally, being a block reader who digests a page at a glance. Nobody with a legitimate right fails to see him and he answers all telephone calls. He carries on a regular system of exercise but lately due to the high pressure of duties has had to curtail social engagements. He accepts but one dinner engagement a week.

Maiden Lane always seemed to me the most alluringly named thoroughfare in the metropolis. Once it was lined almost solidly with jewelry establishments. There are such stores there today but a large number have joined the trek uptown to the new jewelry district. In the days I used to be a sun in the old Maiden Lane days to sidle up slowly to a jewelry shop window and glance about furtively. Almost magically there would appear out of nowhere a detective on either side to see that no window was blocked or any other thieving trickery indulged.

Maiden Lane I believe was the generating ground of one of the most perplexing problems I ever faced. One noon after lunch I was browsing through the district in a leisurely saunter and somehow was eddied out to the curb where I fell in conversation with one of the sandwich men so numerous in the area. Suddenly he asked me to hold his banner a moment and shoved it against me and darted across the street. I waited at least 20 minutes feeling wretchedly uncomfortable and conspicuous. Finally I leaned it against a post and went back to my newsroom. That evening on the way home I passed through the block. The banner was still there. And had I been half as accomplished a plotter as O. Henry I would have provided the ingredients of a bang-up short story with one of those unusual twists for a finale.

Things as Seen by Little Steel

Has Different Idea on Big Steel's Pact With CIO

BY PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, July [illegible]—[illegible] Steel has a very different [illegible] of what happened when Big Steel suddenly capitulated [illegible] John L. Lewis and his CIO last year.

At the time it occurred, Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation—Big Steel—was credited with a [illegible] enlightened labor [illegible] toward labor. The old [illegible] fighting idea with the [illegible] scrapped and the organizing [illegible] by Lewis was met by a [illegible] to really [illegible].

Little Steel, which includes such companies as Republic, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Bethlehem and Inland, did not care to express publicly its own views on the subject but we now have it from a very good source [illegible] barons of Little Steel [illegible] was [illegible] over the deal.

Little Steel's Version

Mind you, the views expressed here are the views of certain [illegible] in Little Steel [illegible] opposed solely for the purpose of telling another side of the ground of Big Steel's [illegible] with Lewis. They [illegible] a recent steel strike [illegible].

From behind the [illegible] hidden [illegible] the [illegible] come the [illegible] that one of the reasons Big Steel reached an agreement [illegible] with Lewis was [illegible] Wall Street bankers [illegible] shares of U. S. Steel [illegible] wanted to unload at a certain [illegible] above 100. They [illegible] prospect of [illegible] price [illegible] it here [illegible] U. S. Steel was [illegible] 100 both before and after [illegible] men of early March [illegible] shade under 100 as [illegible] ten.)

Another reason Little [illegible] advanced. It is well known [illegible] one major steel group [illegible] others follow. [illegible] complex wage schedules [illegible] story [illegible] Little [illegible] than Big Steel [illegible] are raised [illegible] that Lewis [illegible] that when he [illegible] organize Little Steel he would [illegible] out this advantage. This [illegible] create Little Steel's costs [illegible] benefit Big Steel.

Implication

A third reason [illegible] coupled with considerable [illegible] town pride. Big Steel centering in Pittsburgh has cheap coal and nearby seaboard as disadvantages over Little Steel [illegible] in Ohio. Little Steel [illegible] can continue to [illegible] of these advantages only [illegible] its plants are highly efficient, employing a large proportion of [illegible] cially skilled steel labor.

Steel barons argue [illegible] lishment of a [illegible] the factory average of [illegible] the workmen. If such a [illegible] should develop in [illegible] Little Steel [illegible] of its principal means of competition with Big Steel would be wiped out.

For all these reasons—with the bald implication that John L. Lewis had in a sense co-operated with Big Steel—Little Steel fights and distrusts Lewis and his CIO.

That is a side of the [illegible] ing from within the ranks of [illegible] Steel. Some of it bears the marks of sound logic [illegible] does not.

He has [illegible] the experimental school at Canal Winchester High school south of Columbus, where students in the university school do practice teaching. At present Mr. Bender is studying advanced educational work at the university preparatory to beginning actual teaching supervision at the close of the university summer session.

At Waldo High school, where he graduated several years ago, Mr. Bender also was among the leaders of his class. He served as valedictorian and excelled in farm group work. In addition he played on the basketball squad. Among his agricultural achievements while in high school was the winning of the grand prize at the Cleveland livestock show with a steer which he had fed. The animal sold for $2 a pound, bringing him a total of $2,200. He also won several prizes at the state junior fair.

During his four years at Anna, his department has increased from 21 to 35 boys. They are conducting 115 projects on their farms. Classes for young men and adults engaged in farming have increased from eight members to 35.

The F. F. A. chapter which he supervised has won seven trophies and many other awards in state and county competitions, more than any other chapter in the state. This year the Anna chapter is scheduled to represent the state in national competition.

The Anna community grange, Young Farmers' association, 4-H Livestock club and Swine Improvement association all were organized under the leadership of Mr. Bender.

Mr. Bender was recently married at Anna. After graduation from Waldo High school, Mr. Bender attended Ohio State university for four years.

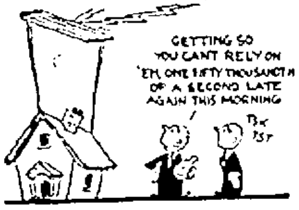
MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — A radio race track has been set up between here and Columbia, S. C., by R. C. Colwell and A. W. Friend of West Virginia university.

They send a radio signal to the station of J. R. Bo[illegible]knight, in Columbia. He shoots it back. The round trip speed of the signal can be timed with an accuracy of five per cent.



GETTING SO YOU CAN'T RELY ON 'EM, ONE FIFTY THOUSANDTH OF A SECOND LATE AGAIN THIS MORNING

First returns indicate that the ether waves don't know the meaning of punctuality. The results are announced in the Physical Review. On March 18 the radio waves rode the airline at a speed of 102,000 miles a second. Two days later they did 146,000 miles. Then they dropped to 94,000 miles, a comedown of 50,000 miles a second only three days afterward.

CHINESE EVACUATE NEW TROUBLE ZONE

Sporadic Fighting Slows Outgo as Forces Suspect Each Other.

By The Associated Press

PEIPING, China, July 9—Official Chinese-Japanese spokesmen announced today that Chinese troops had completed evacuation of the trouble zone of Wanpinghsien, scene of a clash between Japanese and Chinese armies.

Sporadic fighting preceded and slowed the evacuation.

Both the Japanese and the Chinese suspected the other would fail to fulfill the terms of the mutual evacuation agreement, reached at 4 o'clock this morning.

Fighting broke out this morning and again early this afternoon in the western suburban area of this old dragon capital. (Earlier Japanese news advices received in Shanghai had indicated both Chinese and Japanese troops had withdrawn from their battle positions.)

Chinese asserted the Japanese launched an attack on 200 Chinese gendarmes who were enroute to Wanpinghsien, a suburb of Peiping, to take over the duties of the garrison from the 29th Chinese army.

One Chinese gendarme was known to have been killed and four wounded in the latest clash. Chinese trench mortars immediately joined battle with the Japanese light artillery. The sky was filled with smoke-puffs as the sound of machine guns and rifles indicated the battle was once again becoming general.

STORM MAY HALT SEARCH FOR AMELIA

weary vigil at San Francisco coast guard headquarters, accompanied by his son, David Binney Putnam, who arrived earlier in the day by airplane from Miami, Fla.

Inquiries to Putnam and Paul Mantz, Miss Earhart's technical adviser, developed the information the plane carried no water condenser, as previously reported, to obtain drinking water from the sea.

Mantz reported the fliers carried three gallons of water when they left New Guinea.

Young Putnam said he believes his stepmother would be located soon. Asked how long he would remain at San Francisco, he replied:

"Just until tonight, when they find Miss Earhart."

Mrs Franklin D Roosevelt said she believed Miss Earhart's chances for rescue were "above average."

"I don't believe Amelia would give up until the last ditch," said Mrs. Roosevelt in Washington. "Or her navigator, either."

The New Zealand government, replying to a Washington request, said all ships at sea, including the warship Achilles, had been instructed to look for the plane.

FIRST LADY BRANDED TAX DODGER BY FISH

signed in 1935 for radio broadcasts. It stipulated, he said, that after each of 10 programs the sponsor was to pay $3,000 to the American Friends Service committee of Philadelphia.

"If she can avail herself of a loophole," Fish said, "then anybody else in America can do the same thing."

Fish said also he believed the committee should call for the income tax returns of James Roosevelt, oldest son of the President; Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Boettiger, the President's daughter; Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury, and his father, Henry Morgenthau Sr.; Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, and John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The contract, as read by Fish provided that Mrs. Roosevelt was to receive a consideration of $1 only for talks on "Women Today."

Myles F. Lasker, who also signed the contract, Fish said, was to receive $1,000 as commission on each broadcast and $400 was to go to Mrs. Nancy Cook. He did not identify the latter.

"I submit," Fish asserted loudly, "that the contract I read to you for broadcasts by the wife of the President was money she earned as much as money ever was earned by anybody.

"She directed where it would go and controlled that money."

He said the $3,000 for each broadcast was for charitable distribution as directed by Mrs Roosevelt.

Revenue law permits reductions from income for charitable contributions up to 15 per cent of income.

"Fish led up to his remarks about Mrs. Roosevelt by asserting that he had not the "slightest degree of ill will personally against the president, or secretary of the treasury, (Henry Morgenthau Jr.)."

But the President, he said, issued a statement to congress in the last month in which he said tax loopholes are of recent date and "then went on to indict all who use loopholes as unethical, immoral and indecent."

The statement, he added, was "practically joined in by the secretary of the treasury."

The New York congressman said he had no intention of making any charges against the President, or of asking for his tax returns.

Changes in the blood pressure of ostriches in the daytime and at night sometimes is so great that it is registered in alternating density of their plumes.

Private rooms with beds that fold into the walls and are replaced by lounging chairs feature new streamlined railroad trains between Chicago and California.

MOTHER AND STEPSON AWAIT WORD OF AVIATRIX

While search continued for Amelia Earhart Putnam and Fred Noonan, her navigator, her mother, Mrs Amy O Earhart, left, kept vigil at the radio at her home near Los Angeles, and her stepson David Putnam, pictured en route, joined his father on the west coast.

LEGION TEAM SET FOR GAME TODAY

Marion Nine May Be Kept Idle, However, by Columbus-Newark Controversy.

Marion's Junior Legion baseball team was to be in Columbus this afternoon to compete in the district tournament against the capital city team No. 4 of Franklin Post, but under existing circumstances it was not known definitely whether the game would be played as scheduled.

Yesterday the Columbus No. 4 aggregation was to have played Newark's entry at the Red Bird stadium. The Columbus outfit claimed a forfeit when their opponents did not appear at the stadium at game time, but meanwhile the Newark team had reported at a field in their home city to play the contest.

Although after the controversary over the site of the contest began an arbitration board ruled in favor of Columbus, the Newark officials planned to carry their appeal to the state committee. Marion was scheduled to play the winner of the Newark-Columbus game and abiding by the board's decision the club was set to play in the Red Bird stadium at 3:30 this afternoon.

Yesterday, Manager Walter E. Hane, Coach John Ellington and Captain Glenn Wintermute went to Columbus to scout the scheduled Newark-Columbus game, but returned when the contest was not played.

Growling Forest Ranger Turns Back Black Bear.

By The Associated Press

MT. MITCHELL RANGER CAMP, N. C., July 9—Forest Ranger Chet McKinnel pulled all his five feet to the top of a high cliff and met a big black bear which had chosen the other side for a ascent and simultaneous arrival.

"Well, I studied a minute," reported the little ranger, "and then said 'b'ar, where the deuce are you going?' The bear looked at me a second, turned and scampered down the rocks as fast as he could. He was more scared than I was."

BUDGET BILL NEAR VOTE IN ASSEMBLY

new taxes would be necessary for relief was one of the main objectives of the senate hatchet men.

The Commerce Department, of which Alfred A. Benesch is director, was allowed approximately the same amount that is received in the previous biennium.

"Benesch can now resign," Campbell said, referring to a statement in which the commerce director said he would not remain as head of the department if the legislature did not allow sufficient money to conduct the office.

A proposed increase in the state highway patrol appropriations was rejected by the committee. This means that the division will not be able to add 80 patrolmen to its force, as authorized by the legislature, unless the appropriation is made in a separate bill.

The committee made a reduction of $300,000 in the administration of the tax division and $518,000 in the excise tax department.

FORMER WYANDOT CO. GAS EXPERT DIES

By The Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., July 9—Funeral services were arranged today for Frederick J. Weber, inventor of the modern grain elevator and Ohio pioneer in the piping of fuel gas, who died here last night. He was born in Ontario, Canada, in 1860.

He invented the hermetically sealed grain bin after watching an elevator fire at Toledo in 1886. He laid an 15-mile gas pipe line from a natural gas field in Ohio to Upper Sandusky, Carey and Van Lue.

Survivors include his widow, Elizabeth Syler Weber, and a nephew, Fred Kindlay of Findlay, O.

STEEL MEN IGNORE NEW STRIKE CALL

Stick to Jobs at Youngstown Despite Summons of Union Leaders.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 9 — A call for a new strike at Republic Steel plants here by the Steel Workers Organizing Committee apparently was ignored by workers today as the deadline of 11:30 a. m. (Marion time) passed with no workers leaving the mills. Republic officials said "not a single man left the plant."

Republic officials said a few automobiles went in and out the gate but these were ordinary traffic."

The night relief of police, whom Chief Carl Olson had held in reserve, was dismissed at noon.

Half an hour before the time set for the walkout, a crowd of strike sympathizers and curiosity-seekers, estimated by Chief Olson at 2,000 gathered near the gates but national guardsmen, special police and deputy sheriffs kept the crowd moving.

George Simcox, vice president of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee unit at the Republic plant, announced the new strike plans at a meeting last night.

Simcox' statement followed by a few hours the assertion made in Washington by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that "the steel strikes are lost."

Green has been at odds with John L. Lewis, ex officio leader of the steel strikes as chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, parent body of the SWOC. Lewis led a rebellion in the ranks of the AFL in his fight for vertical unionization.

Green based his assertion on his claims that the SWOC had enrolled only a minority when it called the strikes and that it lacked public support because of "the violent policies pursued by the CIO."

Simcox said the strike call was issued only to Republic employes here, and that similar action in the plants of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co would be taken later.

Republic reported yesterday that 6,200 men out of a normal force of 6,800 here were on duty. Sheet & Tube claimed it had 12,800 men at work in two Youngstown plants which have an average daily total of 13,650 at work.

Ohio national guardsmen continued on duty at plants here, as well as in other Ohio steel strike centers. Republic reopened the last of its Ohio mills in Cleveland yesterday.

The deadlock keeping 7,000 Sheet & Tube employes idle in Indiana's calumet district continued as Gov. M. Clifford Townsend urged petitioners for reopening of the two mills to "help convince the Youngstown company to pursue a fair policy."

The police detail at Republic's South Chicago plant was cut in half to 72 men for each eight-hour shift. The plant was the scene of the Memorial day battle which cost 10 lives and left scores wounded.

A drive to "defend the right of local self government" was announced at Johnstown, Pa., by Francis C. Martin, chairman of the citizen's committee, formed as a result of the four weeks old strike in Bethlehem Steel Corp's Cambria works, which normally employs 15,000. The company said 12,000 men had resumed work in the mill.

Martin said a meeting would be held July 15 to expand the movement.

Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio, asked about rumors that the national guard would be withdrawn from Cleveland Sunday, said there was "no announcement at this time."

THIRTY MOTORISTS IN TRAFFIC COURT

Thirty Marion motorists were listed on the weekly traffic docket in municipal court this morning. Of that number, five had appeared during the week to pay fines of $1 for overtime parking and all except 12 others appeared in traffic court this morning. Except for four excuses, one to a delivery truck for improper parking and several to city cars, the remainder of the motorists will be summoned if they do not appear in court or make some arrangements to pay their fines, municipal court officials said.

1937 COUNTY SOIL PROGRAM UNDER WAY

First of 600 Applications Sent Farmers Returned to County Office.

Plans for completing the 1937 soil conservation program were under way today at the office of County Agent S. L. Anderson as the first of the approximately 600 application blanks sent to farmers were returned. The blanks were mailed only to those whose farms were not measured and checked last fall in the 1936 program and by filling them out the farmer signifies his desire to have his farm measured for computation of cash benefits.

Work of checking the approximately 1,600 farms measured last year will be far more simple this fall because it will not be necessary to measure them again, Homer Kile of the farm agents office, said today.

Another and an unusual phase of the soil conservation program in Ohio apparently will not affect Marion county. That is the plan of the state committee to take photographs of farms from airplanes. Assistant County Agent Raymond W. Pifer said the Marion county committee, which would have to approve the plan, does not look upon it favorably. The photographs, being made in several Ohio counties, will be used in making acreage maps and determining how much land is eligible for conservation payments.

The measuring of those farms, out of the 600 whose owners request measurement, will be done in August during the slack season. Last year the measuring was not completed until late October.

For computing benefits for the 1,600 farmers whose lands were measured last year, the county committee will need only to check the crops and acreage planted this year with last year's maps.

RAINFALL ALMOST DOUBLE LAST YEAR'S

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 9—The skies poured 26.78 inches of rain onto Ohio in the first six months of this year, almost double the precipitation in the similar period of 1936.

Columbus weather bureau records given out by John C. Fisher showed today that in 1936 rainfall for the first six months was 14.29 inches. Normal rain for the six months is 19.54 inches.

January, 1937, started off with 9.42 inches, causing disastrous floods over the Ohio river area and the lower Muskingum watershed. Normal rainfall for the month is 3.11 inches. In 1936 there were only 1.65 inches of precipitation, Fisher said.

FALSE FIRE CALL PHONED TO STATION

At noon today city firemen from company No. 3 were sent on a false alarm by an anonymous telephone call. The caller reported a fire at 374 North Greenwood street, but firemen discovered that no such number existed. The telephone message, as is customary in the case of all fire reports by telephone, was being checked through the telephone office to determine its source, Fire Chief McFarland said.

MAE'S HUSBAND

Climax of the suit brought by Frank Wallace (above), vaudeville trouper, seeking to establish the fact that he was the husband of Mae West, came when the screen star admitted she had married him in Milwaukee in 1911, but denied ever having lived with him.

WALLACE WANTS MAE TO DIVIDE FORTUNE

Attorney To Ask for Injunction To Tie Up All Her California Property.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 9 Having won recognition from Mae West of his marriage to her in 1911, Frank Wallace, exhibition dancer, today prepared to demand a half share in the movie actresses reputed $3,000,000 fortune, his attorney said.

Samuel J. Siegel, the attorney, said that "next week we expect to apply for an injunction that will tie up all of Miss West's property in California."

Wallace, Siegel said, was more interested in gaining recognition of the marriage than in anything else, but now he will want to find out "just where he stands."

Expected back here Saturday from a vacation, Wallace will contend, his attorney said, "that Mae West never obtained a legal separation, that Wallace's marriage after she left him in 1915 was void, and that he is her lawful husband."

TALENT GETS FULL SWAY

By United Press

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. — The parents of 10-year-old Vicky White consented to her carrying out an ambition that had possessed both her mother and three sisters to become a roller skate tap dancer. In preparation for the necessary training the family moved from an apartment to a private residence.

FRENCHMEN FIND H. C. L. STILL HIGHER

By The Associated Press

PARIS, July 9—Forty-five million Frenchmen began to mold their economic lives to a new pattern today—one decreed by the second peoples front government to wipe out a regular budget deficit of some 8,000,000,000 francs (about $308,800,000).

The average citizen awoke to find his taxes and costs of living increased and his government arranging to increase railway fares and freight tariffs.

The council of ministers under the new Premier Camille Chautemps, last night published the sweeping financial decree to replenish the treasury by a total of 10,500,000,000 francs (about $410,000,000) and thus meet the fiscal emergency that brought the downfall of the first popular front premier, Leon Blum.

ONE JUDGE TO HEAR CIO INJUNCTION SUIT

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 9—Three federal judges decided today that a one-judge court would hear the Committee for Industrial Organization's suit to enjoin the use of national guardsmen in the Mahoning valley steel strike zone.

Circuit Court of Appeals Judge Xenophon Hicks read the opinion after the three judges heard legal arguments for a half hour.

Legal aids of Att'y Gen. Herbert S. Duffy, opposing the injunction suit in behalf of Gov. Martin L. Davey and Adj. Gen. Emil F. Marx, had requested a three-judge court.

KILLING SUSPECT QUIZZED

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., July 9—Police Capt. W. E. Covert said Dayton police questioned one man and sought another today in connection with an attempted robbery of an east side beer garden in which their companion was shot to death. Covert said the dead man, Oscar B. Smith, 25, was shot by Edward D. Brock, owner of the establishment, and who frustrated an effort to steal a slot machine.

OHIO COMPENSATION LAW IS CLARIFIED

Prevailing Wage Also Assured for Workmen on Public Projects.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 9—Among eight new laws becoming effective tomorrow are three broadening and clarifying provisions of the workmen's compensation law.

Another of interest to labor requires public officials to ascertain from the industrial commission the prevailing wage in any locality before contracts for improvements are let or the work is done by the department itself.

A definite definition for "injury" as used in the compensation law is provided as follows: "Any injury received in the course of, and arising out of, the injured employe's employment."

Parents of any deceased worker with whom he or she lived, hereafter, will be considered dependents for at least $1,000 award. Under present law, dependency of parents must be established definitely to obtain any award. Provision also is made for consideration of "potential" dependents such as children, brothers and sisters, and for total award of no more than $1,000.

The industrial commission also will have authority to increase awards for loss of two or more fingers if there is more than normal disability in the line of work in which the employe was engaged. The award may not exceed, however, that for loss of a hand which is two-thirds the average weekly wage for 165 weeks.

FOUR FELONS FLEE

HUNTSVILLE, Tex., July 9—Four desperate convicts who escaped with five others from Eastham prison farm led scores of baffled officers in a wild, 4-day race across northeast Texas today. Latest exploit of the fleeing felons was to overpower three state highway patrolmen near Alto and escape in the officers' car.

Marion Team Beats Fostoria, 8-6, Gains On Leaders

Battle Royal Booked for Monday Wrestle Program

A battle royal, with six huskies combating each other under the open skies, is the curtain raiser that will greet Marion wrestling fans next Monday night at the outdoor arena on Uncapher avenue. The grapplers, most of them with dispositions that would make an angered animal seem tame in comparison, will battle for the right to take part in succeeding semi-final and final bouts.

Among the wrecking crew that will participate in the battle royal are California's nomination for the meanest man, Ted Travis, Ken Hollis of New Mexico, Germany's bombastic Count Von Bromberg, Uncle Sergeant Bob Kenaston of Silver City, Ore., the red-headed Cecil McGill of Long Beach, Calif., and Teddy Watters of Gallup, N. M.

The entire bevy of tanglers are among the ring acquaintances of Marion fans and all of them have been in action here previously. Kenaston, Travis, Watters and McGill took part on last week's conventional card and Hollis and the German Count have visited here often, although not recently. Among the six can be found a variety of ring talent as well as a variety of temperaments.

Tough Trio

Hollis, Travis and Bromberg are rated as the mean ones of the outfit, willing to resort to almost any line of tactics to gain an advantage over an opponent. The remaining trio headed by the ex-marine Sergeant Kenaston and including McGill and Watters have large followings here built up by clean and clever ring activity.

How the battle royal will wind-up can only be a matter of conjecture but should it happen that the three aggressive and clean grapplers pool their fortunes against the so-called roughnecks it would be almost even money with the former group taking a slight edge. That isn't likely to happen, however when the six step into the ring each with the idea that he's going to be the one that lands on top and not behind the eight ball.

Between each of the falls in the battle royal, the wrestlers will enjoy a minute rest period which is used largely as a method of slowing down the action so that spectators may keep pace with it. The first pair to be downed are eliminated for the evening while the third and fourth grapplers will be paired in a 45-minute semi-final bout. The battlers who remain as the last two combatants will meet in a final two-hour main go, which is the program's finale.

In 175-185 Pound Class

All of the grapplers weigh in the 175 to 185-pound class and any two of them matched against each other would provide a good match. Spectators who have come to heartily dislike the rough trio, Travis, Hollis and Van Bromberg will be clinging to the hope that the three are either wiped out in the early rounds of the battle royal or that they draw each other in the succeeding rounds.

Of the entire group Travis and Kenaston are the most likely choices of going the entire route, winding up in no less than the semi-final. That possibility however, will be remote if either the rough Travis or the aggressive Kenaston is double-teamed early in the battle royal. Although it isn't always the best man who wins out in gang scrap such as this, the cleverer the man the better his chance, and it's still a fast and entertaining performance for spectators.

CINCINNATI ELEVEN GETS NEW MENTORS

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., July 9—The University of Cincinnati will welcome the return of a former assistant coach and a former player as grid mentors next fall.

Athletic Director Dana M. King said Wade 'Red' Woodworth formerly his assistant, and Linus O. Habey, former Bearcat quarterback, would join his staff with the start of fall training.

Woodworth will replace Raymond C. "Tay" Brown as line coach and Habey will school the backfield, King announced.

MERCHANTS TO PLAY COLUMBUS SUNDAY

The Marion Merchants All Star softball club will entertain the Vernon A. C. squad of Columbus at the Garfield park diamond Sunday afternoon, in a doubleheader it was announced today by Robert Putman, manager of the Marion team. The invading aggregation is considered one of the strongest colored clubs in Columbus. The first game will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

FOUR RUNS IN THIRD AND THREE IN EIGHTH GIVE LOCALS VICTORY

Lefty Spence Holds Visitors to Four Hits in Eight Innings.

BY CHARLES HOSTETLER

Downing the Fostoria Red Birds, 8 to 6 at Lincoln park yesterday, Marion's Ohio State league baseball club gained one game on the circuit leading Mansfield Red Sox, who were upset at Findlay, 6 to 4. After the visiting Red Birds drew first blood with three runs in the second inning, Manager Chappie Geygan's warriors tallied four times in the last of the third to take over a lead that was never seriously threatened.

More than 100 charter members of the home team's Knot Hole Gang were on hand for the conflict and gave vent to no little enthusiasm as they watched the progress of the game. The entire crowd, including the youngsters who were guests of the management yesterday was estimated at between 250 and 300 persons.

Bill Mulvihill, Marion catcher, received some measure of satisfaction in engineering the home team's four-run uprising in the third inning. Mulvihill, released by Fostoria a week ago started the bombardment that led to the downfall of his former teammates. He cracked out a double to left field when he went to bat as the first hitter to face the Flock's southpaw, Metra, in Marion's big inning. Mulvihill singled later in the game to turn in two hits in four attempts for his day's work.

Pitches Eighth Win

The heavy honors for the victory should be heaped on the shoulders of Marion "Lefty" Spence, who twirled four-hit ball through the first eight innings of the conflict. In the third he was nicked for three singles and in the fourth for another, but managed to stay out in front of the batters in all ex-

FANS THEORIZE ON ALL-STAR SLAUGHTER AS PLAY RESUMES

Pros and Cons of National Defeat Aired in Post-Mortem.

BY SID FEDER

They wheeled the big league cannon back on the firing line today, while the shots from the All-Star game, particularly those exploding the argument of prize pitching over slugging, were still echoing on all fronts.

As both leagues went into action after their three-day layoff, baseballers all over the map were still shouting theories by the thousand over the whys and wherefores of the lop-sided shellacking the American Leaguers handed their rivals Wednesday.

From the raft of "reasons" thus expounded, these arguments stood out:

1—That the National League seems to have placed too much emphasis on the supposed unbreakable defense of its big three pitchers, and not enough on mass run-production.

2. That an extra-base wallop delivered with men on the bags such as those thumps by Lou Gehrig and Red Rolfe Wednesday is still the best insurance against a whipping:

3—That the individual performances of the Yankees and Cubs in the mid-summer classic, together with their recent league doings, makes it appear at this writing that a New York-Chicago World Series is more than a pipe dream.

Wednesday's National League squad boasted the three pitchers generally regarded as the best in the business—Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell and Van Lingle Mungo—as well as a "hot" rookie in Lefty Lee Grissom. Yet, these four gave up all the American's runs—eight of them.

At the same time, the Nationals, facing the pitching of Tommy Bridges and Mel Harder in the last six innings after finding it virtually impossible to tag Lefty Gomez, collected as many hits as their rivals but scored only three times simply because they were hitting singles and doubles, if at all, "in the clutch" while the other fellows produced the payoff blows.

125 Members Of Knot Hole Gang Guests At Game

The appearance of a circus in the city today, will give Marion baseball fans a bargain bill tomorrow afternoon at Lincoln park. Today's game was canceled and the Fremont Reds will visit Marion's park for the first time Saturday afternoon for a doubleheader with the first game starting at 1:30 o'clock.

Approximately 125 youngsters between the ages of 8 to 15 years of age compose the Knot Hole Gang which yesterday took advantage of the management's offer to attend Thursday games without charge. The youngsters joined up with the Knot Hole Gang at the city playground spots, where registration was handled under the supervision of Clarence Lenz, Y. M. C. A. boys' secretary.

Bob Van Bergen, 26-year-old righthander of Lakewood, O., was released as a member of the Marion pitching staff yesterday by Manager Geygan. Van Bergen, after turning in a creditable record last season had been defeated in five of six starts this season. He is replaced temporarily by Merritt Lancaster, 25, of Gainesville, GA., who is trying out under Geygan's direction. Lancaster's first attempt for Marion ended in a 7 to 5 defeat at the hands of Fremont in last Monday's double bill.

* * *

For a few moments in the eighth inning of yesterday's game it looked like the members of the Marion infield were trying to out play each other. Third Sacker Mike Harris made a long and fast dash, far to his right, to stab Bowen's sizzling bingle down the base line and toss the Fostoria manager out at first. On the second put-out Manager Geygan robbed Gillis of a hit as he made a barehanded stab for hard hit grounder and came up with the ball to get the put out at first.

Ted Swed, Marion's regular first sacker, saw action yesterday for the first time since he was injured in last Saturday's game when he was spiked by a Mansfield runner. Swed took plenty of part in the game being credited with 15 put outs, one assist and tallying one of Marion's runs.

* * *

On Fostoria bench yesterday was 70-year-old Joe Sugden, St. Louis Cardinal scout and former big time catcher. Sudgen went to Fostoria to put the club on its feet, issued coaching orders from the bench as he watched the Cardinal farm hands perform.

MARION MILK SUPPLY O K, INSPECTOR GRUBER SAYS

Favorable Rating Given in Discussion at Health Board Meeting, Department Officials Give Reports

A discussion of the city milk inspection service featured a meeting yesterday afternoon of the city board of health at the office of Mayor Smith. Following the report of Dr. J. T. Gruber, city milk inspector, the mayor, who is prominent in the campaign protesting the adoption of a county-wide milk code, asked several questions of Dr. Gruber pertaining to the quality of Marion city milk.

"What is the quality of our milk?" asked the mayor.

"I have compared it with other cities and feel we have no reason to be ashamed of our quality," Dr. Gruber replied. "It is a very satisfactory grade."

In response to another query Dr. Gruber said he has received only one complaint of dirty milk in the last 12 months in the city and that he felt the fault did not lay with the dairy in that instance. Infrequently complaints are received of irregular butterfat content due to unavoidable accidents to machinery at plants, he said.

Dr. Gruber inspects farms in the county which produce milk for sale in the city to consumers or dairies and recommends improvements wherever he believes they are needed.

Objection to New Code

The county code being objected to by Mayor Smith and a group of farmers in the county grades milk on the basis of bacteria count and cleanliness of the farm on which it is produced. Protesting farmers say it will increase the cost of production and is a regimentary policy which will create a monopoly for more prosperous producers able to purchase new equipment needed for meeting the code's requirements.

Dr. Gruber's report for June follows: seven milk plants inspected, three reinspected; 33 farms inspected, one reinspected, two excluded, one readmitted; 700 cans inspected, 41 rejected; 225 samples for sediment; 98 cows inspected, two eliminated; 600 empty cans inspected, six rejected, 35 rewashed; 220 gallons milk rejected; 24 laboratory samples collected; 30 butterfat tests, 26 [illegible] tests, 45 [illegible] tests, 21 bacteria count tests, 24 acid and [illegible] reduction tests, 13 tests for contagious abortion, one [illegible]; 24 [illegible] orders [illegible] to repair cow barn and milk house, 11 orders complied with.

The average bacteria count for pasteurized milk was [illegible] and [illegible] for raw milk. Butterfat tested 4.1 per cent for pasteurized and 4.7 for raw milk. Bacteria count whipping cream was [illegible] and butterfat was 37 per cent.

Reason for Difference

The reason the raw milk bacteria count is lower than the pasteurized is due to the fact that it is sold only two or three hours after milking, Dr. Gruber said. Milk [illegible] bacteria [illegible] begin to multiply to any extent until [illegible] hours [illegible] after milking, he explained.

The report of Dr. M. M. [illegible], health commissioner, [illegible] contagious diseases reported: [illegible] scarlet fever, three measles, three tuberculosis, one syphilis; three released from quarantine; 16 visits to communicable diseases; five school children examined; eight orders for weeds to be cut; 27 general investigations, three conferences on public health.

The report of Police Chief [illegible] as sanitary inspector included: 17 premises cleaned, 22 toilets ordered cleaned, repaired; 13 orders to remove garbage, 10 for trash, three open cisterns ordered repaired; two quarantine cards put up; 2 orders to cut weeds; 24 dead dogs and cats removed; 29 [illegible] investigations.

Miss [illegible] M. Thomas, city nurse, reported as follows: [illegible] visits, two maternity [illegible] prenatal [illegible] 45 [illegible] at bedside 24 [illegible] visits 15 [illegible] children 10 [illegible] service [illegible] diseases [illegible]

Lunch Edibles Popular

For summer cold lunches, Marion housewives are reported drawing heavily on the local supplies of tomatoes, head lettuce, cucumbers, endive and green mangoes.

Cherries are particularly abundant this year, dealers said, in both California "bing" varieties and Ohio types. Fresh apricots and peaches are fairly plentiful and pineapples are still available in small quantities. A few early pears have arrived.

A cooling menu for hot weather is suggested by one dealer with an eye for his customers' well-being: veal and vegetable pie with biscuit crust; shredded Boston lettuce, bread and butter and tapioca cream.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Deformities.

A DEFORMED child is a problem to his parents. Fortunately, modern surgery has so advanced that many of the disturbing defects of birth can be corrected. Some times a simple operation will deal with the deformity so that it is no longer noticeable. Such is the case in cleft palate and hare lip.

Cleft palate and hare lip are among the most common of the socalled "congenital" defects. By this is meant that at birth there is an unnatural appearance of some part of the body. This continues all through life unless corrective treatment is used. In cleft palate the two sides of the roof of the mouth fail to meet in the middle line, leaving a separation, fissure, or cleft.

The mouth may be perfect, but the upper lip and possibly the bone of the jaw may be involved. This condition is called "hare lip," because it looks not unlike the lip of a rabbit.

There is a very common belief that physical deformities can be traced to fright or some shock suffered by the mother before the birth of the child. There is no scientific foundation for this idea and no truth in it.

Heredity Factor?

I am often asked whether heredity plays a part in congenital defects. It is a fact that a given disturbance may involve several members of the same family and that it actually occurs in the children and grandchildren. But there is no definite proof that heredity is actually a factor; at least no understandable explanation has been made.

Hare lip is not so noticeable in its effect as cleft palate, which affects the speech. In consequence, many cases of hare lip are often disregarded for years. But if there is marked deformity in a newborn child, it is apt to interfere with its taking food. Then it prevents the proper nutrition of the child. Under some circumstances it may be necessary to give the child its milk with an eye-dropper. Every effort must be made to build up the health and resistance of the youngster.

There is no medicine, ointment or other simple treatment that will remedy this deformity. It can only be corrected by an operation. But this is a simple matter and need cause no alarm. It should be performed just as soon as possible.

THERE'S ONLY ONE WAY TO STOP CONSTIPATION

You have to correct the cause. Simply taking a pill now and then is just temporary—and often harmful.

Most constipation is due to meals low in "bulk." Put enough "bulk" in your diet and you can really correct common constipation.

That's why millions of people eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day. This cereal furnishes "bulk" which does not "break down" in the body. ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, gently sponges and cleanses the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. You buy it at the grocery store. Besides "bulk," it has vitamin B to tone up the intestines, and iron for the blood. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily with milk or cream. Three times daily in severe cases. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Life of Mountaineers in Kentucky Described in Kiwanis Club Talk

Miss Vera Stull, for 12 years associated with the Red Bird mission near Pineville, Ky., related many of her personal experiences and described life in the mountains in an interesting and informative talk before the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club at Hotel Marion yesterday.

Miss Stull completed 12 years of work at the mission this spring when she returned to the home here of her mother, Mrs. Clara Stull of 263 St. James street. In her talk she related that the mission was founded 16 years ago and that it is located 20 miles from any type of civilization such as her listeners would come in contact with here.

The mountain district in which the mission is located can be roughly described as several ridges covering an area about 550 miles long and 75 miles wide, comparable in size to Germany or France, Miss Stull pointed out. The chief products originating in the mountains are coal, lumber, oil and gas, Miss Stull [illegible] as she delved into the background of the inhabitants.

The mountaineers are independent, have a quiet courage and are known for their lack of enthusiasm for work, the latter easily explainable when one learns that their existence must be eked out of the barren hills, Miss Stull said. The natives love nature and by their close association with it have come to develop an inherent appreciation for it. Hospitality is a byword of the mountain folk, who, Miss Stull related, are very religious and well versed in the Scripture.

Relates Superstitions

Because the mountaineers are superstitious, sometimes to the point of being ridiculous, Miss Stull said. A widely used cure for croup as used in the mountains is to kill a black hen, remove its innards and place the feet of the afflicted person inside the body while it is still warm, Miss Stull said. A cold cure when mountaineers feel they are likely to be afflicted is the simple procedure of keeping a [illegible] on the upper lip, Miss Stull continued.

The mountain people are especially gifted with natural powers of oratory, probably from their constant desire to speak and talk, Miss Stull said. To illustrate her statement she pointed out that the mission school, with an enrollment of but 200, twice [illegible] the state oratorical championship. The mountaineers, she continued, possess a quiet courage, are not self-conscious and are especially adept at minding their own business.

The mission, located 20 miles from Pineville, is accessible only by a six-mile trip on mule back over a winding mountain road which partly follows a creek bed. Mountain families are largely dependent on animal transportation and in the mission vicinity it is estimated that there is one mule to every two families and one horse to every 10 families. Only recently, with the [illegible] effort of a lumber camp, has it been possible to reach the place other than by mule back.

Hillside Farm Land

Because of the very small portion of flat land it is necessary for the families to [illegible] and scratch on the mountain sides for their livelihood, corn being the most abundant crop. The families live largely in primitive log cabins of one or two rooms without windows while others more fortunate reside in plank houses and still others in more modern frame houses.

The front yards of the homes are usually bare of grass and stock and animals are permitted to graze without restraint. Instead of fencing in the animals and pens, a restricted garden or yard is enclosed. The homes for the most part depend upon [illegible] lamps for light at night and cooking utensils are especially scarce. In telling of a birthday dinner Miss Stull recalled that all of the food was served from what formerly were lard cans.

In the immediate community about the mission, covering a territory [illegible], some 100 families reside. The average annual income for each of the families is $1[illegible], with [illegible] of that amount being earned by the head of the family who would be employed in a lumber camp. The families each cultivate an average of about one and one half acres of corn [illegible] the entire [illegible]. At the time of a survey in 193[illegible] only three families possessed [illegible]. In the same group there were but four washing machines, two pianos and 23 sewing machines.

Women Gather Fuel

To the women of the mountains falls the task of gathering the firewood for cooking and heating purposes. They usually take their washing to the creek bank, using a large [illegible] as a wash [illegible], and often give their children a bath in the same manner. After washing the articles are strung along a fence to dry.

The families enjoy but little social life, one of their big affairs being a "set-off," Miss Stull said. A set-off, she explained, is held each year when a family [illegible] and invites the entire neighborhood in to take part. The neighbors gather together on few other occasions but especially for burials and funerals.

With no embalmers in the mountains it is seldom that the mountaineers can afford an "outside" one from a city to prepare bodies for burial. The dead are usually placed in a rough pine coffin which is homemade and lined outside with black cloth and inside with white. Because of the scarcity of ministers in the mountains funeral services are often not held until as long as two, three or four years after the actual burial.

In the fall after the harvesting has been done several ministers will be invited in to preach the funerals. The neighborhood gathers in and after the sermons, during which anyone who attends is permitted to speak, a feast is held. On occasions when a deceased person cannot be buried the same day wakes are held throughout the night. Friends and relatives gather at the deceased person's home singing plaintive tunes.

Objectives of Mission

The four main objectives of the mission group, Miss Stull said, are directed along the lines of education, social, medical and religious fields. In the schools until recently the only available books were those belonging to the teacher and previously no doctors were available for the community now served by the Red Bird mission. Today, through the work of the mission, a doctor who has at his command a 10-bed hospital is located in the heart of the once practically uncivilized region.

From the mission efforts are constantly being made to dispense information on contagious diseases and precautions are taken. In the religious field the mission workers contact seven appointments to conduct preaching services, Sunday school programs and Christian Endeavor meetings.

Miss Stull, a native of Marion, was introduced by Cicero Zachman. Among guests present at the meeting were State District Governor and Mrs. Z. M. Walters of Lockland, O.; Harold H. Bredlow of Canton, Dr. Oscar L. Moore of Lakewood and Rev. J. W. [illegible]. Harold Hadley, vice president of the Defiance Pressed Steel Co., was introduced as a new member. J. J. Huebner, president, was in charge of the meeting.

ARE VIEWS ON LABOR THOSE OF PRESIDENT?

him because the CIO [illegible] the biggest single contributor to Mr. Roosevelt's reelection.

Doesn't Seem Probable

It is incredible, therefore, that Mr. Roosevelt, who is such an astute politician, would desert the CIO or would be guilty of what is known as "political ingratitude." In politics when a big campaign contributor comes around he is rarely treated with discourtesy. What he demands may not always be granted but the spirit of friendship and cordiality prevails just the same. It would really be surprising if Mr. Lewis did not walk in the back door of the White House at any time—or might be seen by the reporters at the front door—and have a chat with the man whom he worked so hard to elect. Mr. Roosevelt's fortunes are tied up politically with the CIO, and while some conservatives may be gullible enough to believe that the public statements of Secretaries Perkins and Roper really mean a change in administration policy, the number of executives who think otherwise is going to be materially increased when they ask themselves why the President of the United States saw fit to tell the press that he had not even read the statements on labor policy issued by two members of his cabinet.

Governor Earle of Pennsylvania had the correct size-up of the present situation when he told a mass meeting of workers at Johnstown that with a President like Mr. Roosevelt in the White House and a governor like himself at Harrisburg, they didn't need to resort to violence. "It is as if," Governor Earle said, "Depend upon us to use the militia or any other power we have to [illegible] The basic conception of government [illegible] not the road to peace.

MICHIGAN ENACTS LABOR LEGISLATION

[illegible] consent or to make it unlawful for any employe to discontinue work or employment without notice to or permission of his employer or to prevent an employer of his own free will from discharging an employe except as specifically prohibited in this act.

Sec. 17. Except as expressly provided herein this act shall not be so construed as to interfere with, impede or diminish in any way the right of employes to strike or engage in other concerted activities.

Rules on Injunctions

Sec. 18. Except as otherwise provided for in this act, no court of this state shall issue any restraining order or temporary or permanent injunction in any case growing out of any labor dispute to prohibit any person or persons interested in such dispute from doing, whether singly or in concert, any of the following acts:

(a) Ceasing or refusing to perform any work or to remain in any relation of employment.

(b) Becoming or remaining a member of any labor organization or of any employer organization.

(c) Paying or giving any strike benefits to or withholding them from any person participating or interested in any labor dispute.

(d) Giving publicity to the existence of any labor dispute or to the facts involved whether by advertising, speaking, picketing or by any other method not involving fraud or violence, coercion or intimidation.

(e) Assembling peaceably to act or organize to act in promotion of their interests in a labor dispute.

Sec. 19. For the purposes of this act picketing is hereby declared to be lawful in this state except under the following conditions and circumstances:

(a) Patrolling or attendance by any persons, whether on behalf of labor organization or otherwise, at or near a place of business or employment affected by a labor dispute or the residence of any person employed therein or other place where such persons may be in such manner or number as to (1) obstruct or otherwise interfere with approach thereto or egress therefrom or (2) to interfere with the free and unimpeded use of a public highway.

(b) Patrolling or picketing in or about any premises or place of business involved in a labor dispute by a person who is neither employed therein nor a party to the dispute nor an official of a labor organization that is a party to the dispute.

Mrs. Arthur Sturgeon of 535 South Prospect street was hostess at a meeting of the Sunshine class of the Prospect Street M. E. church last evening. The meeting was in the form of a farewell for the teacher, Mrs. Carolyn Shambaugh, who will leave soon for California. Mrs. Glenn Romine conducted a business session and Mrs. Shambaugh presided for the devotionals. Mrs. LeRoy Diehl gave a farewell poem, and Miss Bertha Gracely, a former teacher and the organizer of the class, gave the class history. Mrs. Henry Maag gave a short talk and presented Mrs. Shambaugh with a handkerchief corsage, a gift from the class.

A farewell song by the class closed the program hour. Mrs. Otto Long and Mrs. William Bechtle were in charge of a social hour. A guessing box was won by Mrs. Fred Hyas. Lunch was served.

Dinner and Social Closes Presbyterian Choir's Season

LOSERS in a membership and attendance contest were hosts and hostesses to the winning group when the choir members of the First Presbyterian church closed their season with a dinner and social meeting last evening in the recreational room of the church.

The occasion also was a farewell for Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Bresler who will leave Marion in the near future to make their home in Robinson, Ill. Mrs. Bresler has served as president of the choir and has been acting as organist during the absence of the church organist, Mrs. Harry T. Williams who suffered a broken arm several weeks ago. At the close of the dinner Carl Miller, representing the choir, presented Mrs. Bresler with a cloverleaf table, a gift from her choir associates.

During the social hour a program of music was presented. A male quartet composed of Mr. Miller, Mr Bresler, W. R. Reichtenstein and E. H. Cowan, directed by L. G. Jones entertained with a group of numbers, and a duet was sung by Mrs Bresler and Mrs. Lella Black, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Williams. Completing the program were a duet by Mrs L. G. Jones and Mrs. Miriam Cheney, and a vocal solo by Mr. Jones. The program closed with a group of hymns and songs by the choir with Mrs. Jones at the piano.

E. H. Cowan was chairman of the losing group and the winners were headed by Mrs. Miriam Cheney. Mrs. W. C. Lane and E. H. Cowan had perfect attendance records for the year. Mrs. L. G. Jones was chairman of the dinner committee.

The choir will recess for the remainder of the summer and will resume activities in September.

Mrs. Simon Adams of Fort Yuma, Calif., is visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. E. Baker of 654 Bellefontaine avenue.

ATTENDANCE GROWS AT 3 PLAYGROUNDS

With the city playground programs getting nicely under way attendance is gradually increasing, Clarence Lenz, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., which with the NYA, is sponsoring the program, said today. At the Steam Shovel park yesterday attendance was 265. Lincoln and McKinley parks drew about 150 each.

One of the events on the program at the Shovel park this afternoon is the pet show and parade. Last night the newly formed Knot Hole Gang attended its first game, the Marion-Fostoria contest at Lincoln park. One hundred and ten attended.

Playground leaders now are getting their programs well in hand and the activities will be in full force next week. Y. M. C. A. officials today again urged Marion parents to send their children to the parks for supervised play. The parks are open from 9 until 11:30 in the mornings and from 1 to 4:30 o'clock in the afternoons from Monday through Friday.

Picnic Supper Marks Mission Society Meeting

A PICNIC supper and combined business and social meeting at the home of Mr and Mrs. F. M. Fairchild of the Edison pike last evening marked the opening meeting for the new year of the Missionary society of Central Christian church. Joining the members for the picnic were members of the Missionary guild of the church. More than 90 members and guests were served at the picnic supper which is an annual affair.

Preceding the supper the society held a business session, and Mrs. E. J. Hollandshead, who recently was reelected president, named the following chairmen and leaders: Mrs Harry T. Bell, program; Mrs J. W. Thompson, auditor; Mrs J. T. Bargar, literature; Mrs. Ollie Schneider, librarian; Mrs W. C. Tucker, assistant librarian; Mrs. J. G. Cunningham, reporter. Group leaders named are Mrs H. J. Hartzell, group No. 1; Mrs. F. M. Fairchild, No. 2; Mrs J. B. Swain, No. 3, and Lawrence Sager, No. 4.

Plans were made to continue the support of a native evangelist in India, and to sponsor a "give a gift day" in the interest of the church library at the September meeting. The report showed 114 missionary books read by the members during the year. Three new members, Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, Mrs. J. B. Swain and Mrs. Herman Heisler, were enrolled.

Mrs. Bell presided for the program hour and outlined the work for the coming six months. The theme was "Rural America," and the study was conducted in the form of a school with questions and answers. Miss Luella presented a paper, "Have Yo Lived in the Country?" an Claude Geissler gave a pap "Stewardship." By MARIE DE NERVAUD

[illegible] [illegible] Nervaud)

[illegible] When Kay Cranston [illegible] ranch house and [illegible] Josh Hastings, owner [illegible] tries to buy [illegible] But she [illegible] and court Kay [illegible] is determined to [illegible] Ted Gaynor, a [illegible] she impulsively hired [illegible] to cut its own timber [illegible] without pay [illegible] Scrap Johnson [illegible] but Ted rescues [illegible] Scrap. When Hastings [illegible] Scrap takes his [illegible] and makes his getaway [illegible] Hastings pursues and at [illegible] divide pass finds both Ted and Scrap wounded after a [illegible] He schemes his revenge.

CHAPTER 21

A Fight For Life

BENDING [illegible] John Hastings [illegible] fingers of the [illegible] gripped the gun Kay [illegible] Ted. He held it gingerly [illegible] bandanna, so that [illegible] incriminating fingerprints [illegible] possibly get on it, and [illegible] the loosened [illegible]

[illegible] without any warning [illegible] dark eyes upon [illegible] suddenly again, the [illegible] and the body he was [illegible] seemed as inert and [illegible]

[illegible] Hastings doubted the evidence of his own senses. But with [illegible] pounding suffocatingly [illegible] the memory of that [illegible] look from those [illegible] himself rigidly [illegible]

[illegible] of the scene [illegible] him, but something of the eerie quality of that [illegible] spot from which waters [illegible] to the Atlantic [illegible] made his breath [illegible] and raised a momentary [illegible] him.

[illegible] at Ted Gaynor's white [illegible] for any further [illegible] lay still as death [illegible]

[illegible] coming more normally [illegible] and [illegible] himself for a [illegible] Hastings lifted up Ted's gun. [illegible] walked half way back toward Scrap Johnson, took careful aim and fired.

The shot reverberated from the rocky walls of the pass behind him, intensified by the preceding silence, so that it sounded like the blast of a cannon.

Scrap Johnson's body gave a convulsive jerk, horrible to see. A dark spot stood out on his temple, and slowly spread like a thirsty stain.

Ted Gaynor continued to lay utterly quiet. He could not have been more remote from this scene of violence had he been as dead as the man who had just been murdered.

Dropping the gun from which he had fired the fatal shot, Josh Hastings knelt down and deliberately crawled back to the spot where Ted Gaynor lay.

Rising to his feet, he looked back critically over the trail he had beaten through the grass. He could see Ted's gun gleaming where he had let it fall, and a cruel smile twisted his lips.

He had framed Ted Gaynor, dead or alive. Whoever discovered the two bodies would find it impossible to escape the implication of that dropped gun. At one stroke, he had been able not only to get complete revenge on Scrap, but to wipe Ted Gaynor from his path forever.

No matter what Kay might have thought of Ted, she was not the kind to let her thoughts linger over a proved murderer. From now on, he felt sure the way with Kay should be clear sailing.

Walking slowly over to his horse, Josh Hastings swung into the saddle, and headed back toward the pass.

Burning Thirst and Pain

The moon hung low in the western sky, and moonlight and dawn were mingling in a cold gray light, before Ted Gaynor opened his eyes again.

For a long interval he lay staring straight ahead, his eyes darkened with pain. Gradually the gentle trickle of the water penetrated to his consciousness, and he became suddenly aware of his burning throat, and the fever that blazed through him.

He tried to pull himself over to the water, but fell back with a groan at the intolerable pain in his chest.

A wild look came into his eyes, and he muttered incoherently. Slumping down again by the water that was so near and yet so far, he seemed on the point of giving up. But with a mighty effort he roused himself and rolled over so that he was able to reach the edge of the stream.

Sucking in a great gulp of the life-giving drink, his mind cleared for a moment. He remembered distinctly where he was and what had happened in his third encounter with Scrap Johnson, on his way over to the Clear Water basin to collect his family.

Ted had dismounted to get a drink at the head waters of the pass. Just as he was in the act of quenching his thirst, he heard a rasping challenge behind him. Whirling about and drawing at the same time, he had seen Scrap Johnson standing a short distance away.

The next instant there had been the roar and blaze of two guns. Scrap Johnson's bullet had reached its mark first, while Ted's went wild. From that point, memory registered nothing but a blank void shot through with excruciating pain and horror-filled nightmares. Doubtless Scrap Johnson had decided to ride on, and leave him here to die.

All details of the night blurred into delirium, as the pain in his chest swept over him again. But while the delirium persisted, he did not completely lose consciousness.

Through the delirium ran a subconscious will to live, a determination to pull through for Kay's sake. She needed him. He mustn't fail her!

By a gigantic effort, and propelled by this insistent inner force, Ted pulled himself up on his hands and knees and began slowly and painfully to drag his aching body along the rocky edge of the stream.

Two thoughts possessed him above all others. He mustn't lose the trail of water. He must stay by it, so that he could quench the thirst that burned in him. And he mustn't let himself relax and lie down. Once he did that, he would never get up again.

Gradually the dawn lightened into day. Dull clouds scudded across the sky and no sun appeared to glisten on the headwaters of the Bitter Root and Clear Water rivers. Ted had managed to drag himself 500 yards or more through the scrub pines that dotted the southeastern slope of the divide.

At the point of exhaustion, but still animated by that mysterious will to live that functions without any conscious control, he pushed on to a small clearing that appeared unexpectedly through the trees.

At the far end of it he could see a tumbled down and apparently deserted shack. Making for it, in a blind instinct to reach shelter, Ted struggled over to this goal, muttering in incoherent delirious phrases.

As he approached, there was a slight movement behind the shuttered window. The next minute, a feminine figure appeared in the broken down doorway.

For a terrified second, the girl on the threshold and the exhausted and delirious man stared at each other. The girl clutched the sagging wooden frame of the door. Her brown eyes were wide, and her dark hair seemed in sharp contrast to her face, which showed up without an ounce of color in her startled surprise of the moment.

The amazement in her look gradually changed to concern as she took in Ted's desperate plight and with a cry of pity, she ran over to him and stooped down to try to help him.

With a convulsive effort, Ted struggled to straighten up, but with a groan, he sank back unconscious.

Her first terrified surprise over, the girl proved herself equal to the emergency facing her. She could not have been more than 18, but she had a wiry strength in her tall slender frame.

Half carrying, half dragging Ted, she managed to get him to the door of the shack. The sky had gradually darkened with heavy clouds that piled up in the east and threatened a sudden downpour.

After one glance at the lowering sky, the girl darted inside the tiny enclosure and quickly made up the cot on which she evidently had spent the night.

Then, with one last mighty effort, she pulled Ted inside and managed to lift him onto the cot just as the first heavy drops of the storm splashed on the roof of the shack.

Panting from her exertion, she leaned back a moment against the wall, and studied the face of the man she had brought in.

Evidently reassured by what she saw, she dropped to her knees with a murmur of pity, and examined his wound. Her fingers worked with a gentle expertness.

Rising to her feet, she took a basin and filled it with water. Then she pulled a clean cloth from the drawer of a rude wash-stand in one corner, and deftly proceeded to wash Ted's wound.

The rain, gathering with the swift intensity of mountain storms, beat a wild tattoo on the roof, and gusts of wind shook the tiny shelter to its foundations. But the girl was oblivious to the elements outside as she bent with absorbed attention, to her battle with life and death.

Kay is disappointed when Ted fails to arrive, tomorrow.

MORROW SYRUP PRODUCERS UNITE

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, July 9 — Perry Levering of eastern Morrow county was elected president of the newly organized Morrow County Maple Syrup Producers association at a meeting at the office of Elwood Davis, Morrow county farm agent, Wednesday night.

George Frizzell, also of eastern Morrow county, was elected vice president and the county agent will serve as secretary. The purpose of the organization is to adopt standard regulations for syrup production.

OHIO BORN FREE

Speaking of the ordinance of 1787, by which provision for the organization of the northwest territory and the establishment of states out of the territory was made, Daniel Webster declared that "No single law, nor any lawgiver, ancient or modern, has produced effects of more distinct and lasting character."

At the celebration of the founding of Marietta in 1888, the late Sen. George F. Hoar, also a Massachusetts man, said of the ordinance, "Here was the first human government under which absolute civil and religious liberty has always prevailed."

Manasseh Cutler, who was mainly instrumental in securing these provisions, probably impressed the state beneficially as much as any other person in Ohio's history.

GRAND JURY INDICTS 11 IN CRAWFORD CO.

Crestline Negro Named in Second Degree Murder Writ in Shooting.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, July 9 — Eleven persons were indicted by the April grand jury which filed its report late Thursday after being in session two days. Fifty-two witnesses were examined covering 29 cases.

Among the indictments was one against Otis Kelly, Crestline Negro for second degree murder. Kelly is alleged to have fatally shot Tom McClure, also a Crestline Negro.

Claude and Paul Dutcher of north of Bucyrus were indicted on charges of breaking and entering a granary on the farm of Harvey Lust with intent to steal. The same charge is entered against Russell Schiefer at the Fred Shealy barn where he is charged with having stolen an automobile radiator.

Charges of operating a motor vehicle without owner's consent were contained in indictments against Richard Wilson and Ralph Johnson. Wilson is alleged to have appropriated a car belonging to James Wilcox and Johnson a car owned by Earl Lunger.

Fred Bowen was indicted for breaking and entering in the daytime a dwelling belonging to J. O. Crider with intent to steal a quantity of seed corn and two bags of fertilizer sacks.

Willard Stinehelfer is charged with burglary of the dwelling of Edward Strickler of cash amounting to $29.02, a watch and a pair of trousers. Ralph Zimmerman is charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Arraignment of prisoners will be held at 1 p. m. Tuesday before Common Pleas Judge C. U. Ahl.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

CRISP FROCK BOASTS DETACHABLE COLLAR

Like the perkiness of crisp ruches? Then fancy what a spree you'll have with this smart model whose trim collars make for such an extremely chic effect! Best of all, the top collar may be detached for extra tubbing whenever you desire! Pattern 4453 is distinguished by extra-easy cutting and stitching, too, for the graceful, slenderizing panels are cut all in one piece without any waistline seams! Here's the frock to make you a captivating spectator or colorful participant at every Summer sports meet! Specially chic in silk shantung, or linen.

Pattern 4453 is available in misses' and womens' sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3¼ yards 36-inch fabric and ½ yard contrasting. Illustrated Step-by-Step Sewing Instructions included.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Make a "hit"! Order your copy of the New Anne Adams Pattern Book, and stitch up your own Summer "success" frocks! Choose trim sportsters, lovely dressup flatterers, cheery house frocks, and dainty undies! Gay, well-wearing toggery for toddler and growing-up! Really slenderizing models! See what's what in latest fabrics—accessories—beauty hints! Book Fifteen cents. Pattern fifteen cents. Twenty-five cents for both when ordered together.

Send your order to The Marion Star, Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th St., New York, N. Y.

PATTERN 4453

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, July 10.

A DAY of what is astrologically known as "mixed influences" is presaged from the contradictory planetary configurations. Generally affairs will be lively, but they may end in disaster or misadventure. Sudden events may transpire, and these would be of portentous issue if met with wild impetuosity, recklessness or passionate or violent reactions. Calmness and self-possession are recommended for gleaning the benefits of such abrupt vibrations. Several propitious situations loom.

Those whose birthday it is are on the brink of a year in which their own calm and self-controlled reactions to exciting and menacing situations will be a deciding factor for success and happiness. There are excellent prospects which may be defeated by impetuosity, tumult, rashness and violent or passionate conduct in a possible time of misadventure. Several propitious situations may arise and should be handled with restraint and calm direction.

A child born on this day may be endowed with talents and constructive initiative but may have tendencies to be carried away by a quick, tempestuous and extravagant disposition that should be curbed in infancy.

EXECUTOR ANSWERS ESTATE TAX SUIT

Denies Amount Sought by County Is Due.

W. Lexter Hazen, executor of the estate of Charles L. Gano, filed his answer yesterday in common pleas court to the suit of County Treasurer Homer D. Cole for $650.15 which the county alleges is due in inheritance taxes. It is the first action of its kind in several years.

Mr. Hazen, represented by George T. Geran, denies that $650.15 is due and states that the tax should be $231.50, which amount he is prepared to tender to the court. He explained that part of the Gano estate was in building and loan company running stock. The stock was appraised at its full face value of $12,557.76 in determination of the inheritance tax, when it was actually valued only at $4,185.92, he states.

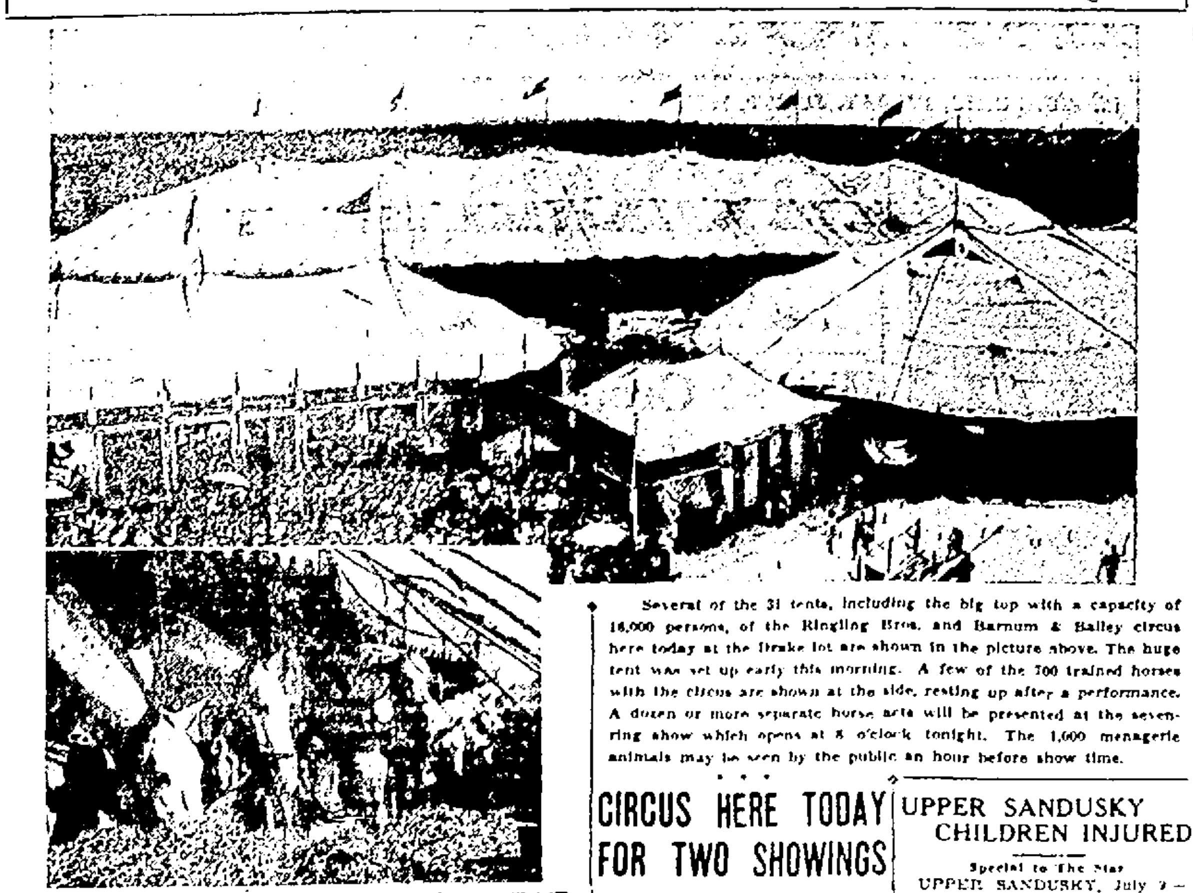
POMONA GRANGE MEETS AT DECLIFF

Marion County Pomona grange members met Wednesday night at the Montgomery Grange hall at De-Cliff, with Lester Watts, worthy master, presiding. Watts and Floyd Barrett, overseer, were named to assist E. A. Williams, county deputy, in planning a county grange picnic in August. The place and date have not been selected.

A report was given by a committee arranging a Little Theater project to be presented at the Marion county fair. The committee was instructed to make further plans.

A practice session for the fifth degree will be held Monday night, Aug. 30, in preparation for a meeting Saturday, Sept. 4, when the fifth degree will be conferred. The September meeting will be in the new high school auditorium at Morral.

DRAKE CIRCUS LOT PRESENTS SCENES LIKE THESE



Several of the 31 tents, including the big top with a capacity of 16,000 persons, of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus here today at the Drake lot are shown in the picture above. The huge tent was set up early this morning. A few of the 700 trained horses with the circus are shown at the side, resting up after a performance. A dozen or more separate horse acts will be presented at the seven-ring show which opens at 8 o'clock tonight. The 1,000 menagerie animals may be seen by the public an hour before show time.

CIRCUS HERE TODAY FOR TWO SHOWINGS

features of the show are the Magyars, a somersaulting springboard athletic troupe; the Aloys, aerial flying and diving; William Heyer, horseman and trainer, with Tamara Heyer and her horse troupe; the Wen Hais, oriental acrobats using Chinese bars; the Mayer-Brach troupe of aerial unicycle riders who pedal their machines over wires near the top of the tent; the Lu-Lolita troupe, aerial artists; the Randolls, flying acrobats; the Orwingos, high trapeze performers; the Clevetra, somersaulting and jumping acrobats; the Qualitieros, airplane revolving acrobats; the Colleras, continental equestrian clowns; and last but not least, Maria Rasputin, daughter of the notorious Mad Monk of Russia and her troupe of spirited horses.

An attraction for children and wild west fans will be Col. Tim McCoy, western movie star, who will ride with his gang of rough riders, including plains Indians, Mexican vaqueros, Cossacks and cowboys and cowgirls.

In the line-up are other acts, with the show for several years, including the Naittos, the Walkmirs, Antaleks, Maschinos Rooneys and Torrences-Victorias. Mlle. Gillette will lead the all-girl aerial display by leaping from the dome of the big top. Others are the Loyal-Repenski and Rieffenach - Walters troupes of bareback riders, the Concello and Comet flying return acrobats, with Antoinette as a girl triple-somersaulter; Rudy Rudynoff and his free running horses; the Walter Guice troupes of aerial comics; Dorothy Herbert, rider of reinless horses; the Wallenda high wire acrobats; Hugo and Mario, the human cannon balls; the imperial Viennese ballerinas on a troupe of ring horses.

Tickets are on sale at Bartlett's drug store at 181 East Center street and at the circus grounds. The big top, the largest ever built, seats 16,000 persons.

ESCAPED PRISONER RECAPTURED HERE

Max Brumfield, 52, of Darius street, reported to have escaped from the Columbus workhouse a week ago, was taken into custody early this morning by police. He was picked up at 1:30 o'clock this morning on North State street.

Brumfield, was committed to the workhouse from Marion county on April 24, for non-payment of a fine and walked away from the Columbus institution a week ago, authorities here said. He was committed on a $50 fine imposed by Judge Martin following a charge of intoxication and disorderly conduct. At the time he was also ordered to serve out a previous $100 fine which had not been paid, police said.

He was being held at the city prison this morning pending of arrival of officers from the Columbus workhouse to return him there.

WALDO CLUB PLANS PICNIC IN AUGUST

Special to The Star

WALDO, O., July 9—Plans for a picnic late in August were made at a meeting of the Waldo Junior Feeders club Wednesday at the home of Donald Demorest. Games were led by Lester Wetzel and refreshments were served by the host. The club will meet next with Donald and Lowell Helby July 21.

UPPER SANDUSKY CHILDREN INJURED

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 9 — Alta May, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Young, and Betty, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lavin, sustained severe bruises Wednesday afternoon, when they attempted to ride down a steep grade at the local water works plant here on a bicycle. Alta May rode on the handlebars while Betty attempted to guide the wheel, the bicycle crashing into a steel post, throwing both to the ground. Alta May suffered severe bruises about the face and knees, while Betty received lesser injuries. Both were attended by a local physician.
